In Brief

A savings of $15,000

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar last week informed Romulus City Council that he had saved nearly $15,000 in yearly premiums for the umbrella type liability insurance carried by the city.

Folmar said he obtained a $2 million umbrella policy from Howey & Associates of Woodhaven for $17,250 as compared to the $32,038 paid last year for the same amount of coverage from the Jones Insurance Agency of Milan.

This year, Jones quoted the city $23,100 for the same coverage as last year, but still almost $6,000 higher than Howey & Associates.

Councilman Ray Cantrell questioned why the clerk was handling what he believed should be the domain of the mayor. Folmar said he had always performed the duty of obtaining city insurance since he first took office.

In recent months, council has taken the city's urban renewal program and control of city hall maintenance personnel away from Folmar.

An invitation to foster home

Elected officials in the city of Romulus have been invited to visit the Southgate Regional Center on Tobine Street in the city by David F. Boyd, director of facility development for the state Dept. of Mental Health.

The facility on Tobine is one of the adult foster care homes which are springing up across the state and which have stirred controversy among some residents living near them.

Although the Tobine facility did precipitate some bad feelings in the neighborhood when it first opened, Clerk Leonard J. Folmar said the situation there seems normal now.

Boyd, in his invitation, suggested Romulus officials come to the home Nov. 11 (yesterday), but council is seeking his okay for a visit today.

Roots: the real kind

Romulus City Council last week approved letting of bids for the cleaning of roots and foreign objects from sanitary sewers in the city's urban renewal area.

The urban renewal area is bounded on the east by Howe Road, on the north by Van Born Road, on the west by Chablain, and on the south by Beverly Road.

Do you know this man?

Police are seeking to determine the identity of this man (insert photo) whose body was found Friday morning in rural Sumpter Township with two shotgun wounds to the back. Larger photo is artist's composite sketch of what he may have looked like when alive. Detectives Ed Lindberg and Jimmy Cranford of the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. released the following description: white male, about 25 years old, 5'8" tall, weight 152 pounds, longer than collar length curly brown hair, rotted right front tooth, small moustache and goatee, blue eyes, and a fingernail biter. Unidentified man was wearing beige button-down shirt jacket with long sleeves, red T-shirt, blue jeans with no belt, brown ankle high work boots, outer pair of grey socks with orange stripe, and inner pair of white socks with maroon stripe. The two detectives urged anyone with information as to the identity of the victim or knowledge of the crime to call them at 721-2222.

Voters reject local proposals

Romulus voters last week defeated two local proposals on the ballot — one calling for four-year terms for all elected city officials, and a second seeking establishment of a Civil Service System for all non-supervisory city employees.

The proposal for four-year terms sought voter approval for an amendment to the city charter, while the one for Civil Service would have authorized adoption of a city ordinance to set up the system for city employees.

Back in 1972, voters also beat down a Civil Service System proposal.

Under the city charter, the proposal must be put before voters three times before it is considered a dead issue.

Political observers expressed surprise that the Civil Service System proposal did not pass. Employees in many local and state governments are under similar systems and usually like the security and other job benefits provided.

Local pundits believe voters are under the misapprehension that the Civil Service System will cost them tax dollars, but such is not the case.

The four-year term proposal lost by a 3,949 to 2,070 vote, while the Civil Service System proposal was beaten 3,499 to 2,440 votes.

Police seek identity of murder victim

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Police are seeking the identity of and information on the body of a white male about 25-years old which was found by a passing motorist Friday morning in Sumpter Township.

Death was attributed to at least two shotgun wounds in the back inflicted at close range, said Det. Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept.

Evidence at the scene indicated the man was shot where his body was found.

Lindberg and Det. Jimmy Cranford, who are investigating the murder, said a motorist who lives nearby reported seeing the man's body lying face down about five feet off the east side of Sherwood Road, north of Wear Road.

Lindberg said the body was discovered about 10:40 a.m. He said a check of the victim's fingerprints with the sheriff's department and with Detroit police failed to turn up any information.

He said fingerprints will be forwarded to Lansing and if necessary to FBI offices in Washington, D.C.

Lindberg said the body was fully clothed. He described the man as 5'8" in height and weighing 152 pounds.

"He had brown, curly collar length hair and evidently had just begun to grow a moustache and goatee," said the detective.

Also, by way of identification, the young man had a rotted front tooth on the right side of his mouth and was a fingernail biter, said Lindberg.

Otherwise, police could find no scars or other identifying marks on his body, he said.

He said the man was wearing a beige button-down outer shirt coat with long sleeves, a red under T-shirt, blue jeans with no belt and a pair of brown ankle high work boots.

Under the boots, the victim was wearing two pairs of socks. Lindberg said the outer pair was grey with orange stripes and the inner pair was white with maroon stripes. "The only item found on him was a comb in the right rear pocket of his blue jeans," said the detective.

Lindberg and Cranford estimated the man was killed sometime within a 12-hour period before his body was found.

They asked that anyone with information on the death or on who the victim might be should call them at 721-2222 immediately.

Sullivan is winner

No surprises in Huron

As expected, Democrat Richard F. Sullivan, former Huron Township treasurer, swept to victory last week in the race for supervisor, defeating his Republican rival, Eugene Perecki, by a 2,119 to 1,337 vote margin.

Counting still is unofficial. According to the clerk's office, a total of 3,945 votes were cast in the general election Tuesday.

Voters turned thumbs down on three local proposals on the ballot and elected three Democrats and one Republican to seats on the township board.

Incumbent Democrat Clerk Mary Lou Carey was unopposed and automatically won re-election, garnering 2,307 votes.

Likewise, Democrat Christine F. Gamber, who was appointed treasurer when Sullivan resigned, was elected with no opposition. She received 2,186 votes.

In the eight-man race for four seats on the township board, winners were incumbent Democrats Frederick Ashby, 1,916 votes; John Puskar, 1,806; and William J. Geierman, 1,763; and Republican Gary G. Bates, 1,687.

Losing out in the trustee contest were: Democrat Helen Kowalski, 1,649 votes, only 39 under fourth-place finisher Bates; Robert Lemieux, 1,481; George Angel, 1,394; and Sidney L. Dent, 1,270, all Republicans.

The race for constable was without opposition for incumbent Democrats William H. Manny and DeVare Willard, who automatically won the position with 1,934 and 1,840 votes, respectively.

The first ballot proposal that called for a change from a general law to a charter status for Huron Township was beaten 2,416 to 915 votes.

Charter status would have afforded Huron greater protection against annexation by neighboring cities and permitted up to five more mills of tax levy for operation of township government.

A second proposal calling for 14 mills for expansion of the township police department to include a third shift went down to defeat by a 2,350 to 1,107 vote margin.

The last ballot proposal that would authorize sufficient millage to generate $1,700,000 over a 20-year period to extend water lines in Huron was defeated 2,911 to 439 by voters.

In Van Buren Township, a similar charter township proposal was turned down 3,323 to 2,224, a 3 to 2 ratio.

Also in Van Buren, GOP presidential candidate Ronald Reagan carried that township with the same margin of victory over President Jimmy Carter as he did in Huron.

Reagan won by more than 1,000 votes in Van Buren and by 623 votes in Huron, both by about a 3 to 2 ratio.

Sullivan is back in political limelight

Richard F. Sullivan will return to political life in Huron Township when he assumes the office of supervisor. And that will be a week from Thursday.

In the Nov. 4 general election, Sullivan, the former Huron treasurer, easily defeated his Republican opponent, Eugene Perecki.

After resigning as treasurer in October of 1979, Sullivan was hired in February of the following year as finance director for the city of Romulus.

"I look forward to serving Huron Township," Sullivan said, "but I leave Romulus with a feeling of sadness."

He said he enjoyed his association with the people and city employees in Romulus and that he had developed an "affinity" with them.

Sullivan was hired on recommendation of Mayor William M. Oakley to help straighten out the city's financial difficulties. Romulus officials felt that he was doing an excellent job in the few short months that he had been employed.

Expressing regret was Treasurer Beverly McAnally, who said she believed Sullivan was an asset to the city and that he would be sorely missed for his financial expertise.

Commenting on his departure, Sullivan said, "My employment with the city of Romulus was a constant learning process. I am a better person in leaving for having served the people of Romulus."

On the other hand, he looks forward to returning to his township in an official capacity with "considerable satisfaction."

"I sincerely appreciate the sup-

DetRo files lawsuit against city officials

Proposed sludge plant owners charge city's 'dragging its feet'

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

DetRo Recovery Products, the company proposing to build a sludge recovery plant in Romulus, has filed suit against the city, charging it with dragging its feet on approval of a site plan for land east of the city hall.

The suit charges that the city has "indefinitely tabled" action on DetRo's site plan and that grounds given by the city Planning Commission "were ambiguous, vague and uncertain."

Named as defendants in the suit are: city of Romulus, Mayor William M. Oakley, Romulus City Council and the Romulus Planning Commission.

After DetRo ran into a roadblock on its proposal to construct its sludge recovery plant on some 133 acres near Ecorse Road and the C & O Railroad because of improper zoning, the company turned to a second smaller 36.88-acre parcel of land immediately east of the city hall.

The Roman published confirmation by DetRo that it had additional acreage under option east of city hall, but would not divulge how much.

In its suit, DetRo referred to the land east of city hall as the "Goddard Road Site" and accused the Planning Commission of delaying action on-site plan approval until it can develop new standards, rules and regulations or ordinances.

The company further charged that "certain alleged deficiencies" were cited in its site plan in reports from George Bingham, city engineer; David J. Paul, DPW director; and Christopher Wzany & Associates, a planning consultant hired by the city.

DetRo, in its suit, contends that the Goddard Road site "is properly zoned for the use described in the site plan"

The suit seeks to have the court issue a pre-emptory order "commanding the defendants and each of them to approve plaintiff's amended site plan of the Goddard Road site forthwith."

Further, the suit asks that the defendants be ordered to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be granted. A writ of mandamus is a legal order commanding that a specified thing be done.

A summons notifying the defendants of the suit was received by the city of Romulus, the principal defendant, on election day, Nov. 4, and was scheduled for the court of Judge Thomas Roumell in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The summons showed Oct. 21, 1980 as the date the suit was filed with James R. Kileen, clerk of the circuit court. The city and defendants are given 20 days to answer or otherwise take action on the suit.

Public hearing on urban storm water pollution scheduled

"Urban Stormwater, the Impact of Development Upon Water Quality" will be the topic of the fall meeting of the Huron River Watershed Council, according to Roger Copp, Executive Director.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the auditorium of Lawton Elementary School, 2250 S. Seventh Street in Ann Arbor.

Thomas J. Blessing, Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner, will be presenting information from a major study on the impacts of urban stormwater from Ann Arbor upon the Huron River.

Copp said that study results indicate that urban stormwater has a great impact upon water quality, and the information presented should be of great interest to elected officials and citizens alike in developing urban areas.

Copp indicated that the Watershed Council will be considering the establishment of the Huron River Watershed Urban Stormwater Management Plan at the meeting.

The Huron River Watershed Council, sponsor of the meeting, is an intergovernmental agency organized to promote cooperation and coordination between units of government on water resource issues in the drainage basin of the Huron River, and to keep the total watershed public informed on such issues.

For further information on the meeting, or on the Council and its activities, contact Roger Copp, Executive Director, at 769-5123 in Ann Arbor.

Council acts on adult bookstore ordinance

The city of Romulus last week took steps to amend its zoning ordinance to include additions and provisions relating to adult bookstores, adult movie houses, cabarets or massage parlors, and to campgrounds which provide short-term parking for recreational vehicles.

With the two required public hearings out of the way, the city council Wednesday directed the city attorney, Charles Lowther, to put the zoning ordinance in proper form as it relates to the two categories.

Added to the zoning ordinance are definitions of an adult bookstore, and adult motion picture theater, and cabaret.

An adult bookstore is defined as an establishment that has a "substantial" portion of its stock in trade, books, magazines and other publications devoted to showing or describing sexual activities or anatomical areas.

An adult motion picture theater is defined as an enclosed building or open site which presents motion pictures in which emphasis is placed on showing and describing sexual activities or the anatomical areas.

Also defined is a cabaret as an establishment that permits topless and/or bottomless dancers, go-go dancers, strippers, exotic dancers, male or female impersonators, or similar entertainers.

Under the ordinance amendments, not more than two of the adult bookstores, movie houses, cabarets, or massage parlors can be located within 1,000 feet of each other.

Also, the use of the above establishments are not permitted to change the character of the commercial district and/or deterring improvement or development of properties in the area which provide community-wide goods and services.

Zoning ordinance amendments relating to campgrounds contain specific regulations for their operation, including compliance with state and county requirements.

A campground is defined as a family recreation-oriented facility for the overnight or short-term parking of recreational vehicles and installation of tents for the establishment of temporary living quarters.

A campground also may be known as a travel trailer park, the amendment states.

Under the new amendment, campgrounds will be subject to the following standards: 1) compliance with state and county laws; 2) four-acre minimum area; 3) each site must be 1,200 square feet in area and shall be occupied by only one family or camping unit of not more than eight persons; 4) common use areas of at least 600 square feet shall be provided for each campground site; 5) each site must have direct access to a dust-free roadway; 6) each site shall provide vehicular parking for occupants and guests; 7) a specified number of restroom and bathing facilities must be provided in a service building for campground occupants;

8) connections shall be made to a public water and sewer system where available, or water and sewage service obtained from an approved source; 9) at least one facility shall provide service to recreational units equipped with fresh water storage tanks and sewage holding tanks; 10) no commercial uses shall be permitted on the site, except for campgrounds with 80 or more sites, which are permitted to have a convenience goods shopping building servicing only campground occupants; 11) fences and greenbelts may be required by the Planning Commission.

After the city attorney has prepared the amendments to the zoning ordinance in proper form, they will be brought back to council for adoption.

'Las Vegas Party' planned

Chamber seeks 1980's top local business person

Members of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce are looking forward to the organization's Las Vegas party on Saturday, Nov. 22, at the Romulus Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Rd.

Also on the chamber schedule this year is the annual Christmas open house at the chamber office on Dec. 16 for all members and their guests. Details will be given at a later date.

The chamber announced that three members of the board of directors had resigned due to added responsibilities and commitments in their businesses. They are: Nancy Smith, Wolverine Chassis; Bill Yochum, Overhead Crane; and Steve Ditko, Kerr Manufacturing.

Three new board of director members have been named recently. They are: Ted Dame, Metro Clinic; James Sowards, Morkin & Sowards; and Bill Logan, Solventol.

The chamber also announced that its office will be closed on Nov. 27.

Big GOP vote alters VB board

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Some 62 percent of registered voters in Van Buren Township turned out last week for Van Buren Township's general election which saw the incumbent supervisor nearly upset and three incumbent township board trustees toppled from their seats.

Township voters strongly turned back a change to a charter township status, but gave their approval to selling a small parcel of Van Buren Park for the site of a senior citizens housing development.

Sup. Pat Cullin, who barely edged her GOP opponent, George Roberts, by a 3,280 to 3,045 margin in unofficial tabulations, cited "straight ticket voting" by Republicans for her near defeat.

She contended that the strong Republican vote was registered by residents who do not normally turn out for elections. She said she based her belief on the results of absentee voting, which closely followed the pattern set in the general election itself.

"Literature was distributed by my opponent on the night before the election," she said, "but absentee voters who never saw the literature voted about the same way as those who did."

The supervisor said she felt "that Roberts' circulation of political propaganda on the eve of the election may have helped her."

Cullin noted, "His night flyers which asked questions that couldn't be answered before election time may actually have won me the election."

She explained that about 50 township residents had called her to complain that they were turned off by the charges made in the flyers. Also, she said, the callers said they were insulted "at being considered so foolish as to believe the candidate really wanted an answer."

Cullin said this type of "stunt" is pulled every other election by one or more candidates in an effort to smear their opposition.

"Most township voters by this time, have become wise to these smear tactics," said the supervisor.

In the race for clerk, incumbent Democrat Doreen Craven received only token opposition from a last-minute entry on the ballot, George Koster, American Independent Party candidate. She pulled 3,742 votes, the highest tally recorded by any township candidate, to a mere 348 for Koster, to retain her seat.

Treasurer Tom Welty was unopposed and tallied 3,713 votes in an automatic win for re-election.

The tide of GOP votes nationwide which vaulted Ronald Reagan into the White House was felt on the township board. Incumbent Democrats Jerry Maton and Joe DiDia narrowly lost out in the trustee race, but Democrat newcomer Chesler Wojcie surprised political observers by gaining a berth on the township board.

The GOP avalanche swept Darwin Kureth, former township supervisor, and Tim Toohey, local fireman, into office on the township board. Their colleague, Dan Clem, failed in his bid to capture a trustee berth.

Reagan carried Van Buren by more than 1,000 votes over Carter.

Only incumbent Democrat Fred Domen retained his seat on the township board.

Unofficial votes for the winning four trustee candidates showed: Wojcie - 3,191; Kureth - 3,115; Domen - 3,022; and Toohey - 3,010. Losers received the following: DiDia - 2,988; Maton - 2,985; and Clem - 2,832.

Cathy Horste had no opposition in the race for constable, receiving 3,514 votes and was automatically elected.

The proposal that called for Van Buren to change from a general law to a charter township went down to defeat 3,323 to 2,224.

Charter-type government would have afforded Van Buren greater protection from annexation by neighboring cities and allowed an increase of up to five mills for operation.

Beyond that figure, a vote of the people would be required.

The charter township issue is still not dead, however. The township board, under certain conditions, can adopt a resolution that would make Van Buren a charter township.

A second proposal passed by a 3,580 to 2,374 vote margin that will allow the township to sell not less than three, or more than five acres of Van Buren park for use as the site of a senior citizens housing complex.

port of the electorate and in their confidence in my desire to serve them," said the new supervisor.

Sullivan said he believes that Huron Township is on the threshold of becoming a "thriving community."

"The direction that this development takes will depend upon the efforts of the people and their elected representatives," said Sullivan.

Currently, Romulus is in the process of finding a replacement for Sullivan as finance director and has been interviewing applicants from throughout the nation. Sullivan said he expects a decision to be made soon.

Sullivan served as Huron Township treasurer from June of 1975 until his resignation in October of 1979. Prior to that time, he served as township trustee from November of 1974 until June of 1975.

From 1971 to 1974, Sullivan worked as a controller for T.J.U., a merchandising firm, and as a financial consultant to Lipshaw, a certified public accounting firm in Southfield.

His longest stretch of employment was with Ford Motor Co., retiring in 1971 after working in the controller's office since 1949.

Sullivan is married and the father of three grown children. His son, Lt. Col. Gerald R. Sullivan, is stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C. A daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Vartanian, is manager of a branch office of American Bank & Trust in Lansing, while a second daughter, Miss Beth Sullivan, is head of the English Department in the Waverly School District in Lansing.

Oakwood Hospital will offer free tests for diabetes

Free screening tests for diabetes, the nation's third leading cause of death, will be offered by the Oakwood Hospital Family Medical Center in Sumpter Township as part of the state-wide observance of Diabetes Detection Week, Nov. 16-22.

The test, which takes but a minute or two and consists of having blood drawn from the arm, will be available at the medical center on Sumpter Road south of Belleville as follows:

— Between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, Nov. 17, 18, 20, and 21.

— Between 2 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 19.

An appointment is not necessary. For more information, call 699-2094. The tests are usually not available to anyone under 12 years of age. Those who are between 12 and 18 should be accompanied by an adult.

Test results are forwarded to the American Diabetes Association, which, in turn, sends results of "positive" tests to both the patient and his physician.

For most accurate results, a high carbohydrate meal heavy in starches and sugar is recommended two hours before the test. Between the meal and test the patient should avoid drinking anything, except water, or eating or smoking.

In its simplest definition, diabetes is a disease which prevents the body from producing sufficient insulin in order to convert the sugars and starches we eat into energy necessary for normal body functions.

Common symptom of diabetes include frequent urination, abnormal thirst, rapid weight loss, extreme hunger, drowsiness, general weakness, blurry vision, and slow-healing infections.

While diabetes occurs at any age, prime candidates are those who are over 40 years of age, overweight, related to a diabetic, or women who have given birth to a baby weighing more than nine pounds.

However, warns the American Diabetes Association, some diabetics, especially those who are middle-aged or older, may experience none of these signs. Symptoms usually attributable to aging — that "run-down feeling," for example — may, in fact, indicate diabetes.

There are ten million diabetics in the United States, with nearly 500,000 in Michigan alone. However, 40 percent of those with the disease are not aware they have it and are not receiving any medical attention.

Diabetes is the leading cause of new blindness and a major factor in heart disease, circulatory problems, and kidney disorders.

Most area residents are unaware that in their midst is located a home for emotionally impaired girls who are sent there by the Michigan court system.

Girlstown, located on Quirk Road south of the I-94 Expressway in Van Buren Township, is owned and operated by the Michigan State Federation of Womens Clubs. That group is composed of several hundred volunteer women's organizations across Michigan.

This year, the Belleville Women's

Girlstown

Home that shelters emotionally disturbed girls

Jr. Study Club was chosen to host Girlstown's annual Ingathering, an open house affair and formal tea.

More than 300 women attended the event Nov. 1, bringing with them donations of food and money to sustain Girlstown for a year.

Cathy Horste, president of the Belleville Women's Jr. Study Club, said several dignitaries attended this year's Ingathering.

They included: Darlene Barent, president of the Michigan State Federated Women's Clubs, and Mrs.

Maxine Lane, president of the Southeastern District Federated Womens Clubs.

Serving both Wayne and Washtenaw counties, Girlstown provides permanent shelter and total physical and mental care to emotionally troubled young female children.

The women's clubs are the main funding agency for Girlstown and various club representatives serve on the home's board of directors. Although the state of Michigan provides a small fee for each girl placed there by the courts, the bulk of the cost for food, clothing, shelter, education, medical care and transportation is borne by the women's clubs.

The annual Ingathering gives members of these women's clubs an opportunity to see Girlstown in action, meet old friends, and to bring donations of food and money.

Mrs. Horste called this year's Ingathering "one of the most successful ever!"

Strike up the band

Belleville's Bill Gage (above) has been blowing his horn for the University of Michigan's Marching Band, 260 strong contingent that will have appeared at seven football games before the 1980 football season comes to an end. Under the direction of Eric Becher, the band is scheduled to perform at all six home games and in Columbus, Ohio, on Nov. 22 when Michigan takes on Ohio State. Gage resides at 8701-145 Belleville Rd.

Republicans pick up seat on Wayne County Board

A third Republican will sit on the 27-member Wayne Board of Commissioners when it begins a new term in January, the first time there has been more than two since the Board was restructured in 1969.

The new member will be Bill Runco, a 23-year-old from Dearborn and an economics graduate from the University of Michigan, Dearborn campus, as well as present law student at the Ann Arbor campus.

Runco defeated Mrs. Elaine Gregory in the Nov. 4 election for commissioner District 22, which includes west Dearborn and north Dearborn Heights. Mrs. Gregory serves on the Board by appointment of its other members to fill the vacancy created by the death of former Commissioner Alex Pilch on Sept. 8.

While attending U of M in Detroit, Runco was president of the student assembly, and was member of a 14-member committee that allocated the $13 million university budget.

On the Board of Commissioners, working with nearly twice as many colleagues, his chief function exercised a year from now will be allocation of a budget exceeding $300 million.

Runco will also be the single new face on the board. Only two of the incumbents faced serious challenge in November, and even they won by comfortable margins. Several of the commissioners were unopposed.

Along with Runco, Republican members of the Board are Ervin A. Steiner, Jr., from Grosse Pointe, and Mary E. Dumas, Livonia.

Parent-teacher conferences for junior and senior high school students and those in alternative education will be held after students are dismissed from classes at 10:45 a.m. on both days.

Time of parent-teacher conferences for the secondary level and alternative education will be noon to 3:30 p.m. and from 5 to 6:30 p.m., Dr. Bedell said.

Parents with questions are asked to call their children's school for additional information, he said.

Moers benefit planned

Alberta Thomas, president of the Wayne Ford Civic League, announced that the league is sponsoring a benefit dinner-dance to aid Lynn Moers.

Moers, was felled by a tree limb during the July 16 windstorm and left paralyzed.

Additional funds are needed to offset the cost of a rehabilitation program for young Moers, who has been transferred to the Craig Hospital Rehabilitation Center in Englewood, Colorado.

The Lynn Moers Benefit Dinner-Dance will be held at the Wayne Ford Civic League Hall on Saturday, Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to dinner and dancing, special entertainment will be provided by the famous Hawaiian Chin-Tiki dancers. Beer and set-ups will also be included in the price of the tickets, which will be $10 per person.

The total ticket proceeds will be forwarded to the benefit fund, as everything required to put on the dinner, dance and program is being contributed.

New reading room

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department's Detention Annex in Westland has a new reading room, thanks to a donation of a paperback book library by publisher Ivan Ludington. The new room, dedicated Oct. 29, is the 110th such library donated by Ludington News Company of Detroit to schools and public buildings throughout the state. Named in honor of Sheriff William Lucas, the library provides "important leisure time and rehabilitative opportunities for the 180 inmates at the jail annex," Lucas said. Ludington (center) presented a plaque to Sheriff Lucas (right) at the dedication ceremonies. Also on hand was Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan (left) who served as master of ceremonies.

County gets down to work to eliminate $20 million deficit

A computer system and a three-member team of consultants from Kent State University are innovations this year in Wayne County budget deliberations. The County Board of Commissioners is considering every means possible to balance and adopt a 1980-81 budget by November 31.

Deliberations for the coming fiscal year have been underway by the Board's Ways and Means since early October. Then the County Board of Auditors recommend for the commissioners a $300.1 million budget proposing 457 job cuts aimed towards elimination of an approximate $20 million deficit.

Throughout October and so far in November the commissioners have reviewed the recommendation with department heads and county and other agencies affected. With help of the Kent State team, the Ways and Means Committee was scheduled to complete its executive-session decision-making last week, and to recommend their own plan to the full board sometime during the week of November 10.

Most commissioners have expressed determination to find alternatives to some of the more drastic proposals in the Auditors' recommendation, such as elimination of entire departments and severe reduction of popular public service programs. Among these would be the Sheriff's Patrol and Investigation Unit, Public Information Department, Planning Commission and Cooperative Extension Service.

The Auditors also proposed to chop $1.2 million funding from the County parks system.

Using the County's Civil Service System computer, the Kent State team is helping the commissioners establish priorities and determine equitable reductions and allocations. The team spent two days with the Ways and Means Committee in executive session.

Members of the Kent team are professors Carl Moore, Jack Gargan and Deanna Kay Scolfield. They are part of the Academy for Contemporary Problems, a non-profit, tax-exempt public foundation operated by the Council of State Governments.

International Management Association, National Association of Counties, National Conference of State Legislatures, National Governors Association, National League of Cities and U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The purpose of the Academy is to assist these organizations in finding solutions to critical problems of all types throughout the country. The Kent team specializes in budget affairs.

Said Board Chairman Samuel A. Turner, "We need all the help we can get in trying to fund $320 million worth of need with only $300 million."

Class teaches self defense

Why worry about the possibility of an unexpected physical attack when you could be prepared and confident to react. The YMCA of Western Wayne is accepting registration now for its new 'Self Defense' program which got underway today and will continue through Dec. 10 at a cost of $12.

It will be in continuous operation after the holidays, beginning Jan. 7 at a monthly fee of $10.

The program incorporates principles of body conditioning and karate technique that make for a healthier individual, as well as one prepared and confident of the unexpected.

Teens and adults, both male and female will fit well into the group according to instructor George Grigorian of Dearborn.

Grigorian, a Black Belt master of "Issshinyu" karate, is a three degree educator employed by the Wayne-Westland School district.

To enroll, call the YWCA (561-4110) or stop by 26279 Michigan Ave. between Beech Daly and John Daly. Teen YW memberships are $5 for teens and $10 for adults for one year. The YWCA is a Torch Drive Agency.

Emotional aspects of crippling arthritis to be discussed

Because arthritis often causes anxiety, anger, loneliness and depression, an educational program sponsored by the Western Wayne Volunteer Unit of the Arthritis Foundation, Michigan Chapter will be offered at the Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center (City of Westland, Parks and Recreation Department) at 36651 Ford Road, between Newburgh and Wayne Roads in Westland. The program will be held on Tuesday, November 18 at 7:00 P.M.

The guest speaker, Barbara Bodzin, R.N. with a Master of Science Degree in Nursing, will talk on "Emotional Aspects of Arthritis".

Open to the public without charge, the Western Wayne Volunteer Unit urges arthritis sufferers and members of their family to attend this important educational program in order to better understand the problems that arthritis causes for them.

The Arthritis Foundation, Michigan Chapter, is a Torch Drive Agency and offers this program as a community service.

College will host race relations forum

"Race Relations In The 1980's", a free public forum open to all residents in the area will be sponsored by Wayne County Community College on Nov. 14 at its Downtown Regional Center.

In consideration of the direction of race relations in the decade ahead, the WCCC forum in cooperation with the Michigan Council for the Humanities, will explore a number of vital issue and social approaches. Will the '80's be a period of retrenchment, as suggested by the many anti-affirmative action suits recently filed? What do the Bakke and Weber cases portend for the future?

Can an examination of the issue of race relations help us to identify and understand the central values by which we live in the metro area? These are but a few of the questions to be addressed in the November 4 public forum.

"We are pleased to be hosting such a meaningful exploration of a subject which must be of interest to our community members," says William G. Herbert, interim President of Wayne County Community College. "We encourage the public to attend this free, open-forum session, in order to hear the opinions of experts on these issues, as well as to have the chance to offer their own perspectives."

Moderator for "Race Relations in the 1980's: Affirmative Action or Benign Neglect?" will be Jerry Blocker, Former Executive Director of the Detroit Chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. Featured speaker for the forum will be Derrick Bell, Professor of Law at the Harvard University School of Law. Dr. Bell has served as an attorney in the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice, as First Assistant Counsel for the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense Education fund, and is the author of Race, Racism and American Law.

A responding panel will be featured to comment upon the speaker's address. The forum panel will include Doris Miller, Field Representative, Michigan Federation of Teacher and member of the Board of Trustees, Wayne County Community College, David Scott, Director of Productivity and Management Improvement, City of Detroit and Dr. Thomas Waters, Associate Vice President for Instruction, Wayne County Community College.

"Race Relations in the 1980's" will take place Friday, November 14 at 7:30 p.m., at the Downtown Campus of Wayne County Community College, 1001 West Fort, Detroit. The forum is open to the public and is free of charge. Further information concerning the forum events is available by calling 496-2587 or 496-2790.

Report concludes: Landfill owner 'not at fault' for odors

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Disposal, a long-operating landfill in Van Buren Township which has come under fire from a small group of residents living nearby, last week came out with a relatively clean bill of health in a report compiled by the Wayne County Dept. of Health.

Conclusions reached in the 7-page report disclosed that the landfill most likely was not at fault on problems caused by flies and that no evidence was turned up to show groundwater contamination.

In the third main area studied, solvent-type odors from the last of three lagoons were identified outside the landfill limits.

But, this complaint is expected to be solved soon, according to the county report. The landfill will soon have the last of three lagoons filled with dirt and storage tanks will be built to store liquid chemicals.

"Elimination of the lagoons and changes in the wastes processing operation should drastically reduce the odor emissions from this facility, and hopefully, none will be detectable outside of the landfill property," the report stated.

Investigation into possible contamination of groundwater in the area east of the landfill showed that "... the nature of geological strata and construction methods used at the landfill are expected to prevent future contamination of groundwater in this area".

In more specific terms, the report stated that no evidence exists "... to indicate that the sanitary landfill is adversely affecting the water at the wells

Survey to provide profile of voters

Did you vote on November 4? Were you registered but did not vote?

The Bureau of the Census will ask these and other questions about voting in the 1980 elections in a sample of households in this area during the week of November 17-21, 1980.

Robert G. McWilliam, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Detroit, stressed that no questions will be asked about party affiliation or form whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of American voters and non-voters by characteristics such as age, sex, residence, education, and labor force status.

These voting questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Results of the monthly employment survey provide data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country. For example, in September the survey indicated that of the 105.0 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 97.2 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.5 percent, compared with 7.6 percent in August and 7.8 percent in July.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Report concludes landfill owner 'not at fault'

(monitoring wells installed by the landfill for inspection by the DNR)".

Further, the report stated: "There is no evidence to suggest that shallow wells which may exist in the subdivision have been contaminated by inadequate private sewage disposal systems or by infiltration from urban or agricultural runoff".

The report placed blame for the excessive number of flies reported last summer by Quirk Subdivision residents "most likely" on the Mary Rose Farms, 11055 Quirk Rd., a horse stables and horse auction site.

"Unusually heavy fly populations during 1980 were most likely caused by fly breeding at the horse auction site on Quirk Road," stated the report. "Measures already undertaken by the stable operators and control measures to be implemented prior to the summer of 1981 should prevent the redevelopment of this problem."

Staff members of the county Health Dept.'s Environmental Health Division and a public health entomologist from the state Dept. of Public Health agreed that "there is no basis for concluding that flies are breeding in any significant numbers" at the sanitary landfill or at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Quirk Road.

Because investigation of the fly problem was taken when seasonal temperatures were lower than in the summer, Alvin A. Therrien, chief of the insect and rodent control section for the state health department, recommended the landfill area be surveyed again next spring.

However, Therrien stated in a letter to Brown dated Nov. 3, 1980: "My observation of the operation of the landfill did not support the conclusion that the landfill was the most probable source of the fly breeding."

"In my opinion, the stables now operated as Mary Rose Farms at 11055 Quirk Road was a more likely source of fly breeding last summer than was the landfill."

Contacted Monday at his office, Brown said Quirk Subdivision residents "had been right in pressing for a decent answer on their complaints".

He stressed that once Wayne Disposal fills up the last of the three lagoons where chemical waste is stored prior to processing into a 35 percent solid material, any solvent-type odors should be confined to the landfill itself.

Two of the three lagoons are now filled with dirt. Wayne Disposal owner, Mike Ferrantino, has agreed to store chemical wastes in storage tanks instead, thus eliminating odors escaping into the open air.

About 40 concerned citizens showed up at last Thursday's special meeting to voice complaints and ask questions of the assembled environmental experts and Ferrantino.

Prior to the discussion on odors, Brown explained that the county's Air Pollution Control Division had received only one complaint about odors near the landfill during all of 1979, no complaints during 1980 prior to the Aug. 29 meeting, and only two complaints since then.

Some members of the audience said their calls to the Air Pollution Control Division had been met with a taped recording and that they had been unable to contact personnel there.

One member of the audience insisted that the township close down the landfill by taking away its sand removal permit. But, Sup. Pat Cullin explained that permission to operate a landfill came from the state after the landfill had fulfilled and complied with state requirements.

She emphasized that the decision was up to the state and not the township.

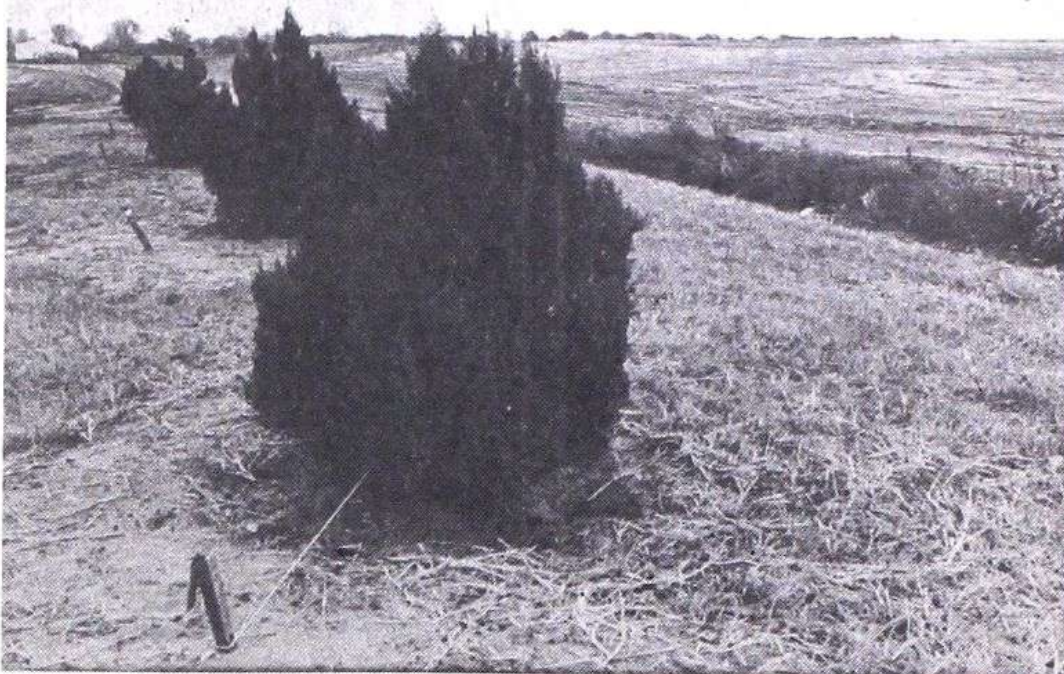

Don Vilnui, engineer at Wayne Disposal, said chemical odors did exist at the landfill, especially when an inversion was present in the atmosphere. But, he said, that would be solved when the lagoon was filled with the next 60 days.

Brown took issue with one audience member who claimed she smelled odors under all conditions almost all of the time. He said during eight visits to the landfill he didn't find that to be true.

"I never heard that comment before," said Brown.

Several charges were made by George Roberts, who was defeated in his bid for township supervisor at the Nov. 4 election.

Ferrantino told Roberts no human waste was being accepted at the landfill and that the company in Monroe whose truck had spilled sewage sludge on the I-94 north service drive recently was no longer permitted to dump at the landfill.

Roberts' said a friend who worked for a chemical company told him that all types of liquid chemicals were being brought to Wayne Disposal. That charge was refuted by Brown.

AT WHAT AGE DO YOU TEACH A CHILD ABOUT DEATH?

Just as there is no specific age in our childhood when we learned about the "birds and the bees," so is there no special age to discuss death with children. It may be a gradual education, given a little at a time. Situations present themselves which may be used to start little talks with your child. Children themselves give you clues to their interest, to their "wanting to know." Questions and comments like these are good "openers": "Boy are these flowers ever droopy, mom!" or "Gee, dad, why doesn't my fish swim right?" As the child's questions become more specific, so should the answers. Give truthful, direct answers, but not too elaborate, because the child might be overwhelmed or confused. As with most learning situations, the best bet is to keep it simple, honest and direct. We are always willing to provide information and tours of our facilities for school groups. Please stop by or phone for details.

Pets & Animals

By STANLEY E. BARTKIEWICZ, D.V.M.

Bartz Animal Hospital

Winter is on its way and preparation should begin if your pet is going to stay outside. Insulation can be placed in a dog house but it must be covered so that the dog cannot get into the insulation.

The floor can be lined with straw. The doorway should be facing away from the wind. A heavy rug can be placed over the doorway to allow the dog to go in and out but will keep out much of the cold weather.

If the temperature drops below zero, the dog should be brought indoors. Dogs with short hair coats need more protection from the cold than long-haired dogs. Dogs can die from exposure.

Fresh water should always be available. Water will freeze outdoors, so the water bowl should be checked often throughout the day.

Cats also have their problems during the winter months. If they are allowed outdoors, they may try to find a warm spot. A warm engine block of a car is inviting to them.

This can be very dangerous as they can be caught in the fan or the belts are the car is started. The cat will be maimed or killed. Outdoor cats face problems year around. They can be hit by a car, get into a fight, or become the target of a neighbor trying to protect his property from damage, noise, or cat excretments.

Your cat is your responsibility and should be kept on your own property or on a lease. No one is to blame for your pet's injuries and suffering but you.

Animals that are not protected from the cold can get frost bitten. This usually occurs first at the tips of the ears. Their hair can freeze to objects if it gets wet. If they lick at very cold objects, their tongues may stick to the object.

Try to make your pet as comfortable as possible. Check on its well being often. Care for your pet by protecting it from winter weather.

The dream was peace, world without wars

One of the toughest decisions a person has to make is whether to kill.

All of us can't do it, especially if we're fresh out of high school, young and have a lot of ideas and ideals about life.

But then you're conditioned from childbirth that "your country, right or wrong," and when you're asked to serve your country, most of us respond without questioning the right or wrong.

Our men and women knew democracy was in trouble back in 1915 and marched to Europe to save it from the hands of Kaiser Wilhelm. And in 1941 again our men and women responded to fight a global conflict that was to put an end to all wars.

But as history has shown, wars, like birth, death and taxes, appear to be with us always.

On Tuesday, this nation paused to commemorate Armistice Day, renamed Veterans Day in memory of all those who took up arms in defense of our country. It is proper and fitting, said one of our great presidents, that we do this, for "they have given their last measure of devotion."

We know of no war that our people have not served in honor.

There are those who will argue that Vietnam scarred this nation, our armed forces. To those we reply, history will show that we, as a nation, did right. We helped to defend those who couldn't defend themselves.

And at great cost.

It has been little more than five years since the last known Americans left Vietnam; and of the more than 2.5 million who served, we left 58,000 dead, more than 300,000 wounded and 75,000 disabled.

As a nation we gave given more to the Vietnamese people than any other country in the world. And history will show that we, the greatest power on earth, wouldn't release our total strength against the enemy not because we lacked the fighting ability, but the leaders to guide us in a most devious era.

To preserve the memory of those who fell, to those who answered the call during a time when it was more popular to run and hide, we add this small tribute to our veterans of all our wars.

They are unique men whom we are proud of.

Over-reacting to landfills

It has become fashionable in some quarters to criticize landfills and dumps and anything that appears to be damaging to our environment. People are concerned, and understandably so. Love Canal remains ominously in our minds, and we want to make sure "that it won't happen here."

That is why governments — federal, state and county — have set up agencies to police those unscrupulous people who would contaminate our lands and waters. The tragedy of PBB, which has all but destroyed the cattle industry in our state; the chemical dumps that appear to surface in the news periodically are also evidence that past ordinances have been weak and landfills have been able to get away with almost anything.

In recent days, landfills and their owners in Sumpter and Van Buren have come under fire by residents who have tossed a lot of unsubstantiated charges around. And when specialists come in and dispel these charges the residents continue to argue.

That is their prerogative. We feel that we should continue to police the landfills, but not over-react to them.

For, if you know nothing about chemistry, how do you argue with the chemist?

If you hire a person to investigate, and they return with some answers you happen not to agree with, do you continue to hire another, and another, and another until one comes up with a report that agrees with you?

Yes, we know of cases where people have lied over and over again, but there comes a time when we must accept the fact that maybe we don't know as much about a subject as we pretend we do.

Our ancestors had to live with landfills and chemical wastes, and those dumps weren't regulated. At least we don't have that worry.

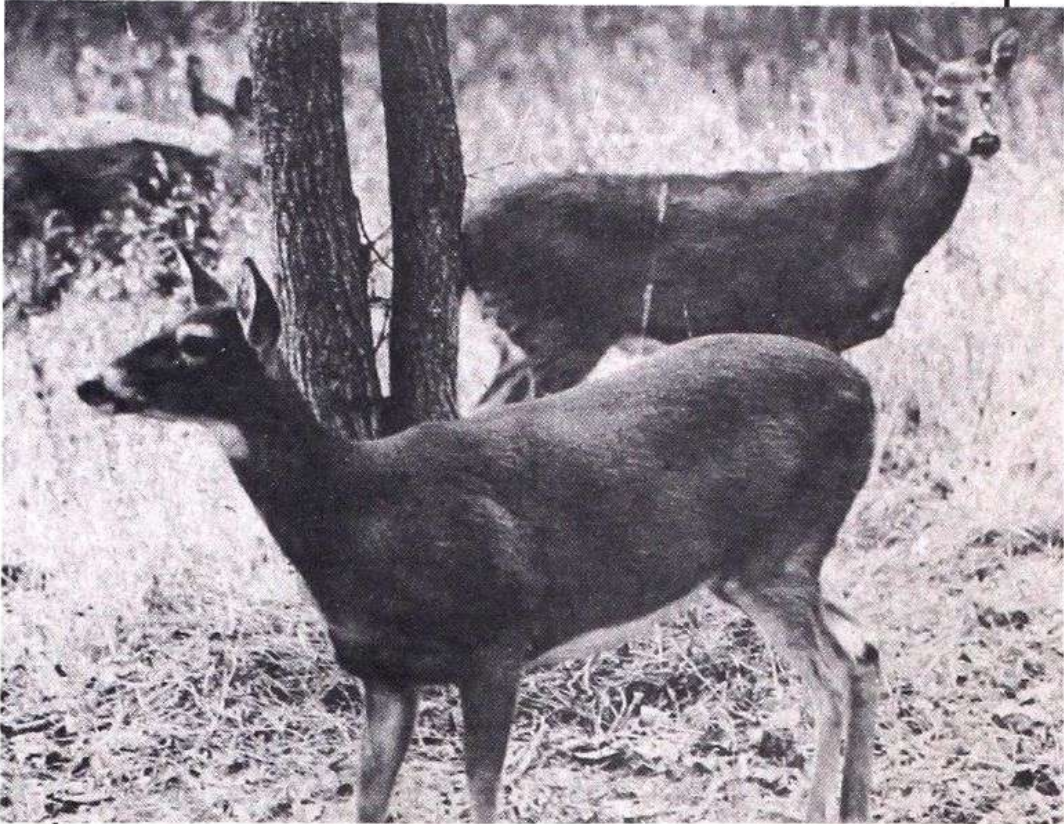

We have agencies to look to, to plead our cases when and if we feel something or someone is damaging the lands, our lives. We should act on the problems of environmental pollution, but we shouldn't become paranoid over them.

Teacher's viewpoint of contract talks

As a Van Buren teacher I am very concerned about the education that takes place in our schools. I am also concerned about the recent allegations of the cutbacks that would be necessitated by a teacher contract settlement.

In the past few weeks, the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools have gone to great lengths to provide the public with information regarding teacher salaries, salary demands and the district's current financial situation.

In fact, tax dollars were used to provide via a newsletter the exact same information that was published weeks ago in the Belleville Enterprise. Unfortunately, the information given provides a classic example of how statistics can be easily manipulated to show a special interest group's point of view.

There are many unanswered questions that arise and clarifications that need to be made to provide the public with a clear understanding of the current dispute.

When the board quotes the figures for teacher salaries, they choose to use the figures for "Masters Maximum". "Masters Max" is defined as a teacher with a Masters degree and 10 years of experience in the V.B. district.

It must be noted that not all teachers fall in this category. The board uses "Masters Max" when it quotes that V.B. teachers ranked seventh out of 36 Wayne county districts in salary in the 1979-80 school year.

If we use the more appropriate figure of the average teachers' salary, we find that V.B. ranked 18th out of 36 districts for that same year.

Let's make a justifiable comparison of our current salaries in those same districts and I think we'll find that we rank near the lowest.

It would be interesting to see how our Superintendent's $48,000 salary ($54,000 with benefits) ranks in those districts. The question comes to mind, what would be wrong if our salaries ranked 7th? We provide one of the finest educational programs in the area and people move into this area because of our schools.

What's wrong with paying our teachers accordingly?

The school board has said that their current austerity program will not allow reasonable increases in teacher salaries. I wonder how then they could find $1.2 million for their new fleet of diesel buses and $26,800 for an electronic engine warming system for those same buses. This is to say nothing of the money provided for a photo electric lighting system for the bus yard. Also the school administrators and other uncertified personnel have been provided with a minimum of a 7 percent per year raise.

Why then have we been offered 4-5 percent? The board has tried to make the teachers sound unreasonable in our 14-18 percent raise request. In these difficult economic times, that feeling is understandable.

Let me, though, compare our request to the sale of real estate. When selling a home, one's asking price is never what one expects to receive, but rather it is set to leave room for negotiations. Perhaps if the board made an offer more in line with other contract settlements, which have ranged from 28-31 1/2 percent for 3 years, progress would be made.

Romulus settled pay raises totaling 8 percent for the first year and 10 percent for each of the next two years. Contrary to what our board would like you to believe, layoffs in that district came prior to a contract settlement rather than because of it.

I would like to dispel at this time many of the myths surrounding the teaching profession. Many believe we get paid for 12 months and only work 9 months.

The truth is that we work 10 months and have the option of having our 10 month pay spread over 12 months. When comparing our work schedule to that of auto workers with similar seniority we find that with their Christmas vacation, change over time and summer vacations that we actually work only one week less than those auto workers! I will not try to make comparisons as to salary.

Many of those same workers rely on overtime hours to provide them with the added luxuries additional pay provides.

Teachers, on the other hand, provide many overtime hours without additional pay. Our work day is not over once the school bell rings. There are lessons to prepare, tests to formulate and mounds of papers to correct.

For teachers, there is no such thing as leaving our work at the office. Understanding all of this it is not hard to see why teachers are filled with frustration. Teaching is by no means an easy job, but we continue because we care about our students and feel we can make a difference in their lives.

We have waited patiently for the last two years and, unlike other districts, we have not had a strike. The teachers have bargained in good faith. Where, though, has that good faith gotten us? The board is no closer to a realistic contract offer than they were 2 years ago. Why?

If you care, as we do, about your child's education, please contact your school board members. Perhaps they will provide you with the answers we have been looking for.

As professional educators we truly believe in the words of Henry Brooks Adams, "A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops."

Where is she?

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

It seems that there are only a few of us that have survived our teen years without wanting to "run away from home."

I think we have all had that sudden infatuation — contrary to the old saying, home isn't sweet — that there is a better life out there. Anywhere.

But, most of us only dream of running away. Or, if we do, we suddenly realize that the safety and security that parents and home provide outweigh the insecurity of the unknowns on the streets.

When a child doesn't show up at home, obviously there is great concern and consternation. This was the case at the home of Mrs. Rita Cruse who, since July 21 of this year has been on a constant vigil for her missing 16-year-old daughter, Barb.

Barb has been the object of a statewide police search since she walked out of her house at 2610 Second Street in Westland and disappeared. Police have almost nothing to go on except that the young girl had no reason to run away from home.

Mrs. Cruse fears "foul play."

"Like most teen-agers, my daughter may have had some problems, but she would never disappear like this because she knew how it would hurt us all. I know something has happened to her."

"And the police have tried to help, but they said all of their leads have ended in a dead end. I've tried to get the metropolitan newspapers to help me, but they refuse. Even the TV stations won't run anything."

One of the reasons why TV stations usually don't handle such stories, unless there is overwhelming evidence of foul play, is because of the countless similar incidents throughout the city and state.

"We wouldn't have time for our regular programs if we put the number of the missing persons on the air," one newscaster said.

Mrs. Cruse revealed that someone had informed her daughter was seen in the Woodward Avenue-8 Mile area, but that lead dissipated as have many others. When told that that area is well known hangout for prostitutes and pimps, Mrs. Cruse replied that she knew that fact.

"My daughter is very overweight and is a very large girl for her age," Mrs. Cruse continued. "She's 180 pounds and stands 5-6."

"I love my daughter. I want her, home. I want to know that she's alive. If she's not being abused by anyone and wants to stay where she is, then, even though it's hard on me, let it be her will."

"But she's 16-years-old, and life for a 16-year-old who isn't streetwise can be very hard," Mrs. Cruse added. "All I'm asking is for anyone who has any information about my daughter to contact me or the Westland police. I don't think I'm asking for too much."

To preserve the memory of Vietnam vets

On this VeteransDay, we look to the nation's most recent veterans and to a project which seeks honor to them.

Last year, to honor the dedication and sacrifice of the Americans who served in Vietnam, a handful of Vietnam veterans formed the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund.

The sole purpose of the fund is to establish a National Memorial in honor and recognition of the Americans who served and died.

When the project is completed, the organization will go out of existence.

In an unbelievably short period of time the Fund has received congressional and Presidential approval of a resolution dedicating two acres of national parkland in Washington, D.C. as a site for the memorial.

But no government money will go into the design and construction of the memorial—that's the way the veterans want it. Private citizens, individual Americans, are contributing the funds.

The memorial will make no political statement about the war. Rather it is intended to be a symbol of national unity, of reconciliation. It will be located near the Lincoln Memorial, also a symbol of reconciliation after a divisive era.

Recently, the VVMF announced an open, nationwide competition to design the memorial.

A prestigious jury of experts in the arts and design professions will choose the winning design.

The Fund's basic design principles call for a memorial of reflective and contemplative nature that will include the inscription of the names of all 57,661

Americans who died in the war.

So far, the Fund has raised about $500,000 of the estimated $3 million needed for the design and construction of the project. On this Veterans Day, we urge public support of this very special memorial.

Tax-deductible contributions may be sent to: The Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, Inc., P.O. Box 37240, Washington, D.C. 20013. The deposit and accounting of all gifts is conducted by an independent financial institution.

Lies spread about Tisch

EDITOR — The states, counties, cities and school districts better clean up their acts. The next two years could change the whole picture if they don't. They have lied to the people so often that the people are not going to take it any more.

The state, counties, cities and school districts lied so bad on the Tisch Bill it was a shame. They scared the people living in the senior citizens apartments, with their hand bills saying that their rent would go up.

Tisch Bill had nothing to do with their rent, but the seniors believed it! They even tried to lie to the people in the National Election, but the voters saw through it.

This last election proved one thing — you had better be honest with the people or you'll be out of office.

The Unions have finally found out that their members will vote their own way regardless of how much mail they waste or money they put behind one party.

I would like to see the day when all unions will support a candidate for his or her qualification instead of party.

Just because your a "jackass" or an "elephant" doesn't make you a qualified candidate. All you have to do is look at our city, our county or our state you'll know what I'm talking about.

There are good people in all parties so why not pick the good ones from all parties, your members come from all parties, but I understand this takes looking beyond your noses.

The union has people from all parties in their membership yet they take their union dues to support one party.

If they would school their members to look for the best woman or man for the office they are running for, then and only then will we have a good government within our cities, counties and state.

It is getting to the point where the voters are finally kicking up their heels and doing the selecting of candidates who are going to be responsive to the public's needs regardless of the party. Thank God for that.

Remember you who are in office all over this country, the same thing can and will happen to you!

'Please cancel my subscription'

EDITOR — I want you to cancel my subscription to your paper as of this week.

The article that you published in your paper complimenting that dump was the last straw. You have always slanted your feelings in favor of it in most of your previous editions.

You took an unusually large space in your glorification of this horrible monstrosity. I wonder why you did not suggest Mr. Solve move it out to Grosse Pointe where he lives. They always want the best of everything located in their neighborhood.

Your reporter has sat in on most of the meetings where he could hear the feelings of the citizens against this dump and the pleas about the sicknesses and deaths that are constantly occurring to the residents living near this dump.

It would have been a service to this neighborhood, if you had made a research of the many, many deaths that have been occurring to residents living near this dump.

Wants committee

EDITOR — The article about the Summer Theatre Committee in the November 6, 1980 issue of your paper may create the impression that I was unhappy with the operation of the 1980 production. This was not the case. The high level of cooperation and professionalism exhibited by Co-producer Gail Mack resulted in the best managed production in the history of the Summer Theatre program.

The concerns that led me to recommend that this program be administered by a Council appointed committee involved the lack of City control in an activity funded by the City. I hope that the establishment of this committee will insure that this activity will always be operated in the best interest of the citizens of Wayne.

Rename Livonia School District

EDITOR — Your newspaper recently reported that Councilperson Gail McKnight of Westland had suggested renaming the Livonia School District.

I agree wholeheartedly with Mrs. McKnight.

Clearly, as citizens of Westland pay taxes and attend classes in the Livonia School District, there should be some recognition of that fact. Councilperson McKnight proposes the district be renamed the Livonia-Westland Public Schools.

Certainly, the name change will be largely symbolic, but I believe it will cause a philosophical change in the way we seek solutions to our mutual problems. I hope others would join with us in urging the Livonia Board of Education to adopt a resolution renaming the school district.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Reflections

One time I read someone who said the reason she had never found himself was because she had never looked.

I rather liked that statement, probably because it halfway agreed with what I had been thinking, except I would have changed it to say, "I've never found myself because I've never had time to look."

And, of course, the reason I never had time to look was because I ended up, heaven knows why, with six kids, followed almost immediately by six grandchildren.

Having that many kids around you all the time takes away any incentive to find yourself.

I was so tired the other evening that I didn't even feel guilty about not looking for myself. I just went upstairs and curled up in bed with a good Harlequin romance that my best friend said I should read "because it's got stuff in it that can stir your blood."

The book was pretty good because it only took about two pages and four extra paragraphs before the author began the stirring the reader's blood.

But I kept getting these guilt feelings.

If I wasn't too old and too tired to get my blood stirred a little, then I surely wasn't too old and too tired to start looking for myself.

After all, what am I going to say when I get up there to the Pearly Gates and Saint Peter asks me who I am, and I reply that I don't know. How am I going to explain to Him that even when I knew I was getting close to those Pearly Gates I made no effort to find myself, but, instead, spent time curled up with a book destined for no other purpose than to stir up my tired blood?

I read the last line of the third page where the hero folded the heroine into his arms, and with both their hearts beating passionately, he leaned his dark head towards her, his acquiline profile quivering with the intensity of his feelings, and placed his lips on her moist, red, searching lips!

That's enough to stir anybody's blood, wouldn't you say?

Well, I read that last page and then I reluctantly folded that book in on itself and reached for a 'heavy' book on the nightstand. When I saw the title of that book it dawned on me how long it has been since anyone in this house had been interested in the search for himself, for that book was a book on the greatness of Winston Churchill, and the copyright was 1952, just about the time I lost control of my life and submerged it in the antics of the very young.

It was on page seven of this weighty tome that I realized that even in reading about the greatness of Winston Churchill, I wasn't going to have too much success in my own growth, for right in the middle of that page I read: "Young man," said Churchill, "what the deuce is the matter with you?"

"Excuse me, Sir," said the officer, "but you are sitting on the smoke vent and the people downstairs are suffocating!"

As anyone can see that kind of stuff, while it might relate to greatness, wasn't going to do much in making me delve down and find myself and therefore grow. But then, a flash of enlightenment hit me!

Looking for oneself

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Here I was, a senior citizen curled up in my very own bed, with my blood getting stirred and my funny bone tickled, all in less than five minutes.

How much more growth can one stand?

And what if it wasn't in the right direction, at least it served one purpose, it let me know I was still alive. Which is a good thing, because right at that moment one of my grandchildren, the one who can't read, came bouncing into my bedroom.

Read 'The Cat in the Hat' to me Grandma." And he thrust the book in my hand and curled up beside me.

I don't know whether I will get any brownie points at the Pearly Gates, but I didn't even have to open that book to read "The Cat in the Hat" to that little kid.

What it boils down to is that it is really Dr. Seuss's (the author of The Cat in the Hat, and other tongue twisting goodies for little ones) fault that I never had time to find myself.

Who wants to find herself when she can find the cat in the hat, and eat green eggs and ham?

Ask Carol Premo

Why the increase in swearing

By CAROL PREMO, PhD.

Dear Carol,

Swearing seems to have firmly established itself in the vocabularies of most people. Even people who are aghast at some forms of swearing (i.e. using sexually descriptive words) will blithely turn around and use God's name in vain or—"deleted expletives."

Originally, it seemed that swearing was restricted to being an expletive—you hit your finger with a hammer and instead of saying "Ouch," you say "..."

Now swear words are being used extensively as adjectives in regular speech where no great anger or pain is evident.

The problem is now that the overuse and overexposure have eliminated the shock or surprise tactics of swearing.

Now longer is there any advantage in swearing in an argument, as your antagonist is likely to be able to swear just as fluently as you.

Does that mean we are going to go on to "bigger and better" swear words? Or does it mean people will have to use sentences to describe what they are feeling instead of using the shortcut of just swearing?

Do you agree that swearing is on the increase? Do you feel swearing serves any useful purpose?

Dear "..."

This is just another example of overexposure diminishing effectiveness. More and more is not necessarily more, it can even result in much less.

No, I do not think that swearing serves any useful purpose. However, it sometimes permits an individual to express his feeling.

Some people call others by swear words rather than explain exactly why they are angry with the other person. To say that someone is rude, arrogant and selfish is communication in a direct way. Not pleasant, but direct and specific, not at all vague, like swear words can be.

The way things are going, I feel, we may ultimately lose some of our more direct language.

Dear Carol,

I know in previous columns you have said—share with the person what you are feeling about a given problem and voila—they will either discuss/or not discuss it with you. Could you be more specific, please? Like, if I describe the situation, could you give me some concrete approaches?

I know someone who is behaving in a hostile and combative way. This person is negative about everything, dissatisfied with everything. The person behaves like a spoiled brat—the neighborhood bully—always ready with a threat to punch you out—always demanding more time, effort and energy.

Unfortunately, this person is not less than 10 years old, but closer to middle age. I have been avoiding a direct confrontation because I question the value of calling and saying, "Hey, your behavior has reached an intolerable level of rudeness, coarseness, negativity and obnoxiousness, so shape up!"

What should I do?

Reaching the End of My Rope

Dear End,

How about trying it my way before discarding it as valueless. Keep in mind that confrontation does not necessarily mean joining in on the negativity. A direct approach can result in reasonable discussion, not fighting.

If this person is someone you care about or have cared about, a show of concern would seem very appropriate. For instance, instead of saying, "Hey, your behavior..." etc., you might say that you have noticed that something seems to be bothering him/her and that you are concerned.

You can give examples and show how such behavior makes you feel. In other words, open up the channels of communication.

Frequently when persons behave in an aggressive, antisocial manner, they are acting out a problem which is bothering them. Opening communication can help bring their behavior into focus and help them take appropriate steps toward change.

On the other hand, if my way doesn't work, you probably will end up rejecting your friend. That is what generally happens to people who engage in antisocial behavior. Rejection, isolation, etc. continue as the person becomes more alienated and has fewer and fewer friends and acquaintances. At least with my way you stand a chance of salvaging something.

House Call

Hunters and heart attacks

By MAURICE B. REITZEN, M.D.
Department of Public Health

No one but Paul Bunyan could carry Babe the Blue Ox across his shoulders and stride without fatigue through the wilderness. Yet, some hunters, who ordinarily lead sedentary lives, set out for strenuous hunting trips, carrying heavy gear, and exerting themselves beyond their endurance. The danger, of course, is heart attack.

If you're not the real Paul Bunyan, you might follow a few tips that could save you from being draped like the Blue Ox over someone's shoulders.

First, get yourself in shape. Increase your exercise program and, if there's a question about your health, see your doctor. Walking over hill and dale, sometimes in deep snow, is not your regular saunter through the city park. Once you're there, be sure you dress warmly.

Cover your head, ears, hands, and throat, and remember that an uncovered head is like a smokestack that emits your body heat. Keep it covered. Never hunt alone, and if you shoot your deer, depending on where you go, get help in dragging it back to camp.

If that calls for a celebration, do it moderately, and gets lots of rest. Watch your alcohol intake, too, because alcohol causes your body to lose its heat faster.

If you're on medication for a heart condition, be sure everyone in your group knows where you keep the medicine and how it's used. Hunters are killed by stray bullets every year, but many also are felled by heart attacks. If anyone with you has the following symptoms, get medical help fast: a feeling of fullness, heaviness, or squeezing pain in center of the chest that sometimes spreads to the arms, shoulders, neck and jaw, and may be accompanied by nausea, vomiting, sweating, and shortness of breath.

If these symptoms appear, sound the alarm and get immediate medical help. You won't panic, if you studied the area when you first arrived and know where to get help for any emergency.

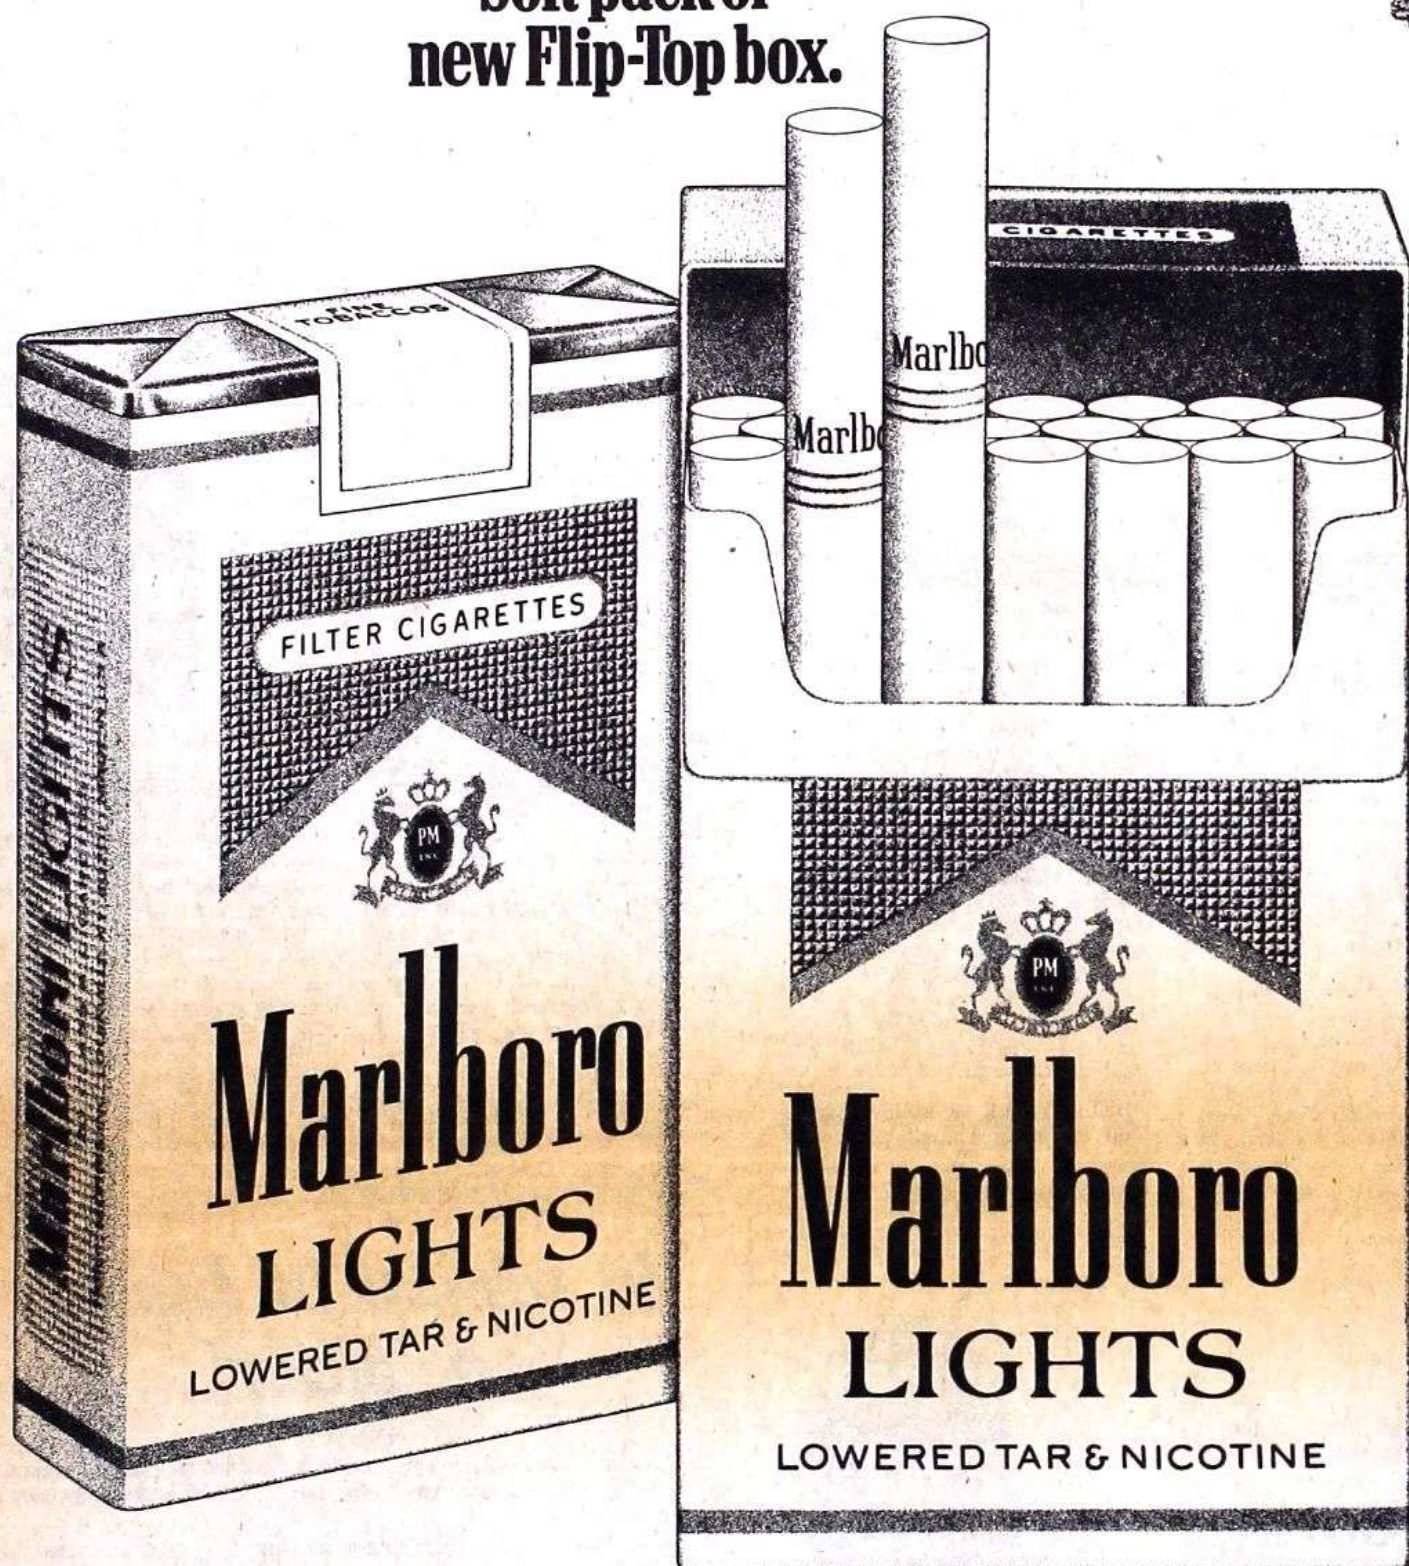

A little common sense goes a long way toward a successful hunting trip. The important thing is not to take chances or over exert yourself.

You may feel like Paul Bunyan when you start out, but if your daily exertions at home compare with the energy of Tom Thumb, be careful.

Bake 'Surprise Cookies' for holiday entertaining

Christmas just wouldn't be Christmas without very special cookies. Not only are they one of the traditional foods of the season, but there are also so many occasions for serving them!

Holidays are the season for treats and snacks because there's a lot of socializing, which is, of course, made more pleasant with some delicious cookies and eggnog or cocoa. They're handy to have as a dessert if the dinner's been filling. And, of course, they're wonderful as presents for teachers or preachers, special friends or neighbors.

Christmas cookies are always more special than those we usually have during the year. They're either richer or thinner, more decorative, flavorful and tempting than ordinary cookies. One of your new ones this year might be Surprise Packages, so called because each cookie is decorated like a precious little package that holds a chocolate mint enclosed in dough.

Cranberry Bars are made from rich cookie dough with a fruit filling. The bottom crust is partially baked before spreading with cranberry sauce. Top prettily with fluted strips of cookie dough to give a peekaboo effect to this holiday treat and return to oven to complete baking.

There's an unusual, surprise ingredient in Christmas Melt-A-Ways. It's the cornstarch blended with the flour, which yields a very tender crumb to these cookies and gives them a special eating quality. A simple, tinted icing decorates them appropriately.

SURPRISE PACKAGES

Yield: approx. 4 dozen

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
48 thin layered chocolate mint wafers
Red and green decorator icing

Cream butter and sugars in large mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Combine dry ingredients. Add to creamed mixture, mixing well. Divide dough in half; wrap each in plastic wrap and refrigerate 1 to 2 hours for ease in handling. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Work with half of the dough at a time, leaving remaining half refrigerated. Using 1 scant tablespoon of dough, cover each mint, forming a rectangular-shaped cookie. Place about 2 inches apart on lightly buttered cookie sheets. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets and cool completely on wire racks. Decorate with decorator icing to look like a wrapped package.

CRANBERRY BARS

Yield: 48

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 can (16 oz.) whole berry cranberry sauce
1 teaspoon grated orange peel

Cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour and salt. Gradually blend in dry ingredients. Gather dough into a ball; wrap in plastic wrap. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Pat two-thirds of dough into bottom of unbuttered 13 x 9-inch baking pan, forming a 1/2-inch ridge around edge. Bake 15 minutes. Meanwhile, combine cranberry sauce and orange peel. Remove pan from oven. Spread with cranberry mixture; cool on wire rack. Roll remaining one-third of dough on lightly floured surface to form a 9 x 4-inch rectangle. Cut crosswise with fluted wheel into 1/2-inch wide strips. Arrange strips in lattice pattern over filling, pressing two short strips together for those to be placed lengthwise. Return to oven and bake until light brown in color, about 30 minutes. Cool completely on wire rack. Cut into bars. Store, covered, in cool place or refrigerator.

CHRISTMAS MELT-A-WAYS

Yield: approx. 4 dozen

Cookies:
1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Icing:
1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 egg white
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
Red and green food color

Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. For cookies, cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Combine flour and cornstarch; add to creamed mixture. Beat until well combined. Stir in almond extract. Shape dough into 1-inch balls. Place on unbuttered cookie sheets. Flatten with bottom of a glass that has been dipped in flour. Bake about 20 minutes or until cookies are slightly firm to the touch. Cookies will not brown. Let stand a few minutes before removing to wire racks to cool completely. For icing, combine confectioners' sugar and cream of tartar in small mixing bowl. Add egg white and vanilla. Beat on high speed of mixer until frosting holds its shape. Divide frosting in half; add red food color to one half and green food color to the other half. Cover with a damp cloth until ready to use. Pipe through a pastry tube fitted with a small rosette tip. Decorate cookies using frosting to form Christmas shapes.

Leaf-raking is sociable activity for a fall day

By KAY DeBORD

Raking leaves is a "sociable" occupation on a sunny fall day. The dog attacks the rake, then brings a ball to be tossed, and somehow you can't resist the invitation to play.

An annoyed squirrel lets you know if you get too close to one of its food storage places, and the birds line the fence (mostly sparrows) to see if they can con you into putting an additional ration of high-priced bird feed out for a snack.

Looking down the block, you can see other leaf-rakers (those not in watching a football game!), and occasional car passes, a friendly neighbor going about his or her business waving a hand or tooting a horn in greeting.

The family cats bask in a sunny window, supervising the raking operation, occasionally turning their attention to licking an unruly patch of fur into place.

Somehow, during a break, it calls for chilled cider or warm tea instead of coffee — and donuts tempt one off a diet regime.

It's a nice time to take a walk in the early evening, the family dog tugging on a leash as it seeks to catch up on the canine news at every bush, twig and post. Our rustling progress through the leaves that fell after the last raking setting the neighborhood dogs on a barking spree, for which I feel apologetic, though it happens to us, too, when other dogs walkers pass our house.

When the chill of evening sets in and you aren't in the mood for TV or radio, you start to think of those you should write letters to, or call. Or with the soft music of an FM station in the background, it's time to rehash the days doing with the man of the house, who does his part until the letdown of the work of the day sets in the he nods off leaving his mate to the fascination of a game of solitaire or dog and cat grooming, the latter chore over their protests.

When a golden day of autumn comes along, you feel you have to enjoy it to the fullest, as you know that the wind and cold of winter is looming in the future.

Maybe that's why, as I have expanded on the past, October is my favorite month — but this year it has let me down and the honors go to early November — which also includes the birthdays of a dear cousin, a daughter, a grandson and the anniversaries of both daughters and sons-in-law.

Maybe I will just have to settle on two months to be my favorites — unless the weather cycle changes my outlook once again.

Clowning around

There's more to the 4-H Program than animals. That's what a group of area youngsters found through a clown class offered at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension and Education Center in Wayne. The class teaches youngsters the art of applying makeup and how to simply clown around. Showing off their skills in ballooning sculpturing recently were clowns Jimbo

'Signing' in

There's a new learning experience for a group of employees at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. The employees are being taught to communicate by the use of "signing" in order to reach an understanding with very hearing impaired persons admitted to the hospital as patients. The eight weeks of classes are in two-hour segments on a weekly basis and are taught by audiologist Kathy Kulick. The students are all there on a volunteer basis.

At Annapolis

Volunteers learn 'signs' to aid hearing impaired

By KAY DeBORD
Being hospitalized, in itself can be a traumatic experience, but when that person has very impaired hearing, the situation is even worse. Family members and friends who understand and can communicate cannot always be at hand. And as willing and patient as hospital staff members may be, it is not always possible to get across to the patient who has a severe hearing loss, necessary information or to even find out any questions that are coming up in the mind of the patient. Don Harvey, a Westland resident and an employee at the People's Community Hospital (PCHA) facility in Wayne, Annapolis Hospital, came up with a suggestion that may alleviate the problem to some extent. Harvey, who works in nuclear medicine, took a class in "signing" through his church, Calvary Baptist Church in Wayne, about two years ago, and was able to put his training to work recently to help a deaf patient. The deaf patient had to be moved to another floor because of treatment, and the reason for the move couldn't be explained to or by his wife, also deaf. Harvey was asked to come to the floor and explain the move through the use of sign language, and subsequently, he suggested to the hospital administrator that an employee program be started to make sure that there are several people on the staff available for signing for deaf patients. Currently underway is an 8-week class for employees taught by audiologist Kathy Kulick. The class includes 10 volunteer students, plus speech and hearing department employees, who meet weekly for a two-hour class session. The students also can meet individually with Ms. Kulick in order to learn to sign the lists of words used in a particular area of their work. The signing is used in conjunction with lip reading and the signer says the word along with the gesture. According to Ms. Kulick, signed English is never as fast as oral English, but it's a relief to a patient to know that "at last somebody is here to understand." It is hoped that the experience will benefit both the patient, the staff member and the hospital, and if the interest continues, there's a possibility of continuing the program.

We all are guilty of slipping into ruts once in awhile, and sometimes it takes a big push to get on a new track.

So it is with dining out. If we go to Chinese restaurant, I order a sweet and sour dish. At an Italian restaurant it's salads with Italian dressing (of course) and either pizza or pasta. WJM won't eat Mexican, isn't too fond of Greek foods and won't even consider Slavic foods, although he admits to liking homemade Hungarian noodles and chicken paprikash.

When we go out for DINNER — those three or so times a year we really splurge — I opt for lobster, while he'll tackle surf and turf. The youngest McD prefers a filet (medium rare, mind you) and considers the bread basket his and his alone.

Now those are tastes that are definitely in the rut when it comes to dining out. But thanks to Chuck Muer and a tasting session at the Gandy Dancer in Ann Arbor recently, I'm ready to branch out in seafoods.

The tasting session was to introduce new items on the menu at the restaurant, and Muer's executive chef, Larry Pagliara, was on hand to make sure the wine glasses were never empty and to explain what went into his creations.

Sampling the different appetizers and entrees brought back fond memories of my travels in Europe. Getting most of my attention through was mini-loaves of bread, that take 45 minutes from their creation to being put in baskets and served to diners. A simple bread dough, the attraction is the seasonings that coat the loaves. Chef Larry calls it a "pizza loaf" because of the mixture of seasonings, which included garlic and kosher salt.

For the adventuresome there's spicy paella. It is said that what sells a product is its appearance, and considering that it's served in a large metal pan, the paella will be a big item at the restaurant. The pot includes a half of a lobster, mussels and clams, just to name a few, and a spicy rice.

Chef Larry's Bouillabaisse for one also has a half lobster in the pot and a whole lot more. It's a seafood adventure in a 1½-quart china tureen.

The Gandy is one of my favorite places to dine. Located in the Ann Arbor railroad station, Muer has adapted his restaurant very nicely to its surroundings. The Garden Room fronts on the railroad tracks. Floor-to-ceiling glass windows are filled with plants of all shapes and sizes, and diners get to watch the comings and goings outside, while they eat.

The main dining room is in the station's former waiting room, and Muer has used the wooden benches travellers waited on as part of the seating. A large railroad clock, a pride and joy of Muer's, was acquired from the Penn Central Railroad. It was the standard clock for the railroad system and the clock employees set their watches by.

A baggage cart serves as the salad bar, and dessert selections are made by pulling a ticket from a large ticket ring. I freak out over the desserts — they all sound so good — but usually end up ordering cheesecake. And like a large part of the interior of the restaurant, there's a story to go with the Gandy's cheesecake.

According to manager Dave Lewis, the cheesecake is made on consignment by a woman who lives in the Ann Arbor area. She calls and finds out what the order is for the next day, then after a local pizzeria closes down for the night, she moves in to use its ovens to make her cheesecake. And wow, is it good — a thin layer of sour cream on top and a crust that includes chopped walnuts. Your taste buds are emotionally drained literally after eating it.

I would be negligent if I didn't mention something new at the restaurant. The Gandy now offers chargrilling of fish. I am one who cooks fish wrapped in foil and doused with diet margarine and a few spices. I thought I had died and gone to heaven after tasting chargrilled swordfish and salmon. What a difference that made in the taste. Even WJM had to admit it tasted good, and that's a lot coming from him. He's not a big fish eater at all. In fact, he won't eat fish, other than shellfish, at all.

So least I sound like an advertisement, do consider the Gandy Dancer for a special evening out. You won't regret it.

Y-Teens seek more volunteers to help

The laughter of teenage girls and rapid footsteps drifted down the corridor to the room where Y-Teen advisor Mary Kate Malatesta who was a Y-Teen when she was in high school waited for the Dearborn High Y-Teens to gather. Joan, the service chairperson had asked Mary Kate to meet with her committee a few minutes before club time to make sure of all the details for her report to the club on their forthcoming party at the children's home. Kim, the finance chairperson had been meeting with her committee in another corner to complete plans for the Y-Teen International Foods Dinner scheduled for mid November.

Club President, Jamie, looked at her watch counted 31 noses and knew that it was time to call the meeting to order. She realized that the business agenda had to move quickly because in 30 minutes a guest was coming to give a demonstration of self-defense techniques. Mary Kate, the advisor, took a seat at the side of the room and prepared to sit back relaxed, but alert and ready to offer support to the girls if they needed it. She felt confident that she had worked through with the officers and members as they determined their program goals and proceeded to make them happen. She is their consultant, friend and sometime confident but she is not their leader. A major Y-Teen goal is leadership development.

This scene will be recurring throughout Western Wayne County at the YWCA, high schools and junior highs and community centers in Canton, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Romulus, Taylor, Wayne and Westland. Advisors like Mary Kate are needed to help girls keep on learning and practicing the skills of group organization and having fun. The investment is small but the rewards are great for Y-Teen advisors. Find out how to get involved by calling the YWCA of Western Wayne County — 561-4110. Just say, "I want to be a Y-Teen Club Advisor."

To be proper

Etiquette's involved in sending greetings

Maybe writing an incorrect title on your Christmas cards is not so disturbing as painting Santa in a blue suit — but it can create a wrong impression. Tradition counts a lot at Christmas, and a properly addressed and signed card is one of the familiar touches that helps make the Christmas scene warm and memorable.

You may already be thinking about imprinted, "personalized", greeting cards this year. The stores have a fine selection, and usually their staff can guide you on correct usage of titles. But if you like to have things worked out in advance — and to walk in with typed or neatly written "copy", your store will be delighted, and there will be fewer chances for mistakes.

Here are the basic rules for the imprint of your cards and envelopes, as suggested by the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers. Remember, the printed envelope with zip code is appreciated by the post office as well as by friends who try to keep their address lists up-to-date.

Also, a printed name on the card permits you the warmth of a handwritten "Joe" or "Donna" without any ambiguities.

When titles are used, the husband's name usually appears first: Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Cortez; Doctor and Mrs. Raphael Cortez. If both parties have titles, or the wife holds a title and the husband does not, the senior title should appear first: Colonel Maria Cortez and Major Raphael Cortez; Doctor Maria Cortez and Raphael Cortez.

Without titles, either name may come first: Maria and Raphael Cortez or Raphael and Maria Cortez.

A father's name appears first when children's names are added: The Cortezes — Raphael, Maria, Francisco, Mercedes and Jaime; Raphael, Maria and the Children; The Raphael Cortez Family; Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Cortez and Family.

Most often for a single person, woman or man, informality is the rule: Tina Verde or Paul Zebrowski. A widowed or married woman uses her husband's name first: Mr. Norman Forrest; a divorced woman uses her first name first: Mrs. Harriet Forrest.

Some people tend to add an apostrophe "s" to last names to make them plural. For instance: The Morgan's. Use of the apostrophe is incorrect. Simply add an "s" to all last names except those ending in "s". With names ending in "s", add "es". The name Corliss, for instance, becomes The Corlisses.

Titles are always spelled out: Doctor, Captain, Lieutenant, Officer of the Army, Marines and Air Force use titles with grade of Captain and above. Officers of the Navy use titles with the grade of Lieutenant Commander or above. In all services, officers of junior rank use "Mr." with the grade and organization on a second line: Mr. James Duggan, Second Lieutenant, U.S. Marine Corps.

It is always appropriate to send a Christmas card to your Pastor. For both Protestant clergymen and Roman Catholic priests, the proper address is "The Reverend John B. Jordan", or, if he has a degree of D.D. or L.L.D., "The Reverend Dr. John B. Jordan". If your minister is married, it's "The Rev. and Mrs. John B. Jordan".

"Master William Paulus" may be a little quaint, but it will keep Billy's father from opening the card — always fun for a child — and won't make the warmth of Uncle Herman's signature and enclosure any less appreciated.

Next step, of course, is sending the cards, and just as important as getting your imprint correct is getting the names and address of your friends correct.

For old friends, it is largely a matter of getting the address up-to-date — and written clearly on the envelope.

For new friends, take the time to get names just right. That is important not only for business acquaintances, but for those you hope to add to your real friendship list. If she prefers Sallie to Sally, for example, it is important for you to get it right. And, a "Ms." may just be a traditionally-minded Miss or Mrs.

In these informal days, of course, there are some exceptions. A grandson who sends a card to "Gram, 123 Fourth Street, Her-town", won't upset grandmother, but he might easily disturb the Postal Service which prefers the addition of zip codes.

Cooking's featured

Old-fashioned home-style cooking fills the air with luscious aromas at Greenfield Village during the special Cornucopia of Cooking Weekends this November.

Each Friday, Saturday and Sunday in November, skilled craftspeople cook early American fare in four historic houses. Each of the four cooking demonstrations, which span two centuries in methods, is authentic down to the use of herbs and spices.

In Susquehanna House, a plantation home from Maryland, a turkey with cornbread dressing is prepared at the hearthside using a tin reflector oven, a common device for roasting game the 1700s. At nearby Plympton House, a duck on a spit and fish are roasted during the fireplace cooking demonstration, a technique utilizing several small fires instead of a single large one. Indian rye bread and stewed pumpkin is also prepared at Plympton.

The cooking demonstration at the Stephen Foster Memorial House recreates the treats made in a wood-burning stove, as a craftsman prepares apple and pear dumplings. At the Henry Ford Birthplace chili sauce and corn relish are prepared on "Farmer's Friend No. 1," an old wood-burning stove, using a 19th century recipe.

Headache symptoms are common, but painful

Headache is one of the most common symptoms encountered in medical practice. It is also one of the most common afflictions of mankind which can be extremely disabling. Headache can be an indication of anxiety or an indication of an underlying disease state.

The head and neck contain many pain-sensitive structures such as the scalp, neck muscles, blood vessels, coverings of the brain called meninges, and cranial nerves. When these structures become stretched, enlarged, compressed, or inflamed, headache usually follows.

Many conditions such as tension, depression, minor head injuries, fever and infection, drugs, alcohol, low blood sugar, eye disorders, inhalation of toxic fumes, aneurysms, and brain tumors can affect these structures, subsequently leading to headache.

Headache is generally classified as vascular, muscle contraction, traction, cranial inflammation, and miscellaneous. Migraine headache is a common example of vascular headache. For a headache to be classified as migrainous, it must be episodic in nature.

Migraine headache generally has a throbbing quality, may be localized to one or both sides of the head, and is associated with nausea and vomiting, sensitivity to light and noise, fatigue, chills, and increased frequency of urination. It may last from several hours to several days. Factors such as stress, hunger, crowded places, adverse weather conditions, alcohol, and foods such as cheese, chocolate, and bananas are all reported to potentially precipitate migraine headaches.

The onset of migraine headache generally takes place during the first or second decade of life. In children, the recognition of migraine can be very difficult; especially when complicated by abnormal behavior and confusion. Although there is no one personality type common to migraine sufferers, they have often been described as sensitive and compulsive, harboring some degree of repressed hostility. A positive family history of migraine can be obtained in as much as 65 percent of migraine sufferers; either sex can be affected. The cause of migraine is not known. Although heredity has been implicated, genetic proof is as of yet lacking. Continued on B-6

Thoughts of the holidays

The First Congregational Church of Wayne has its thoughts on the upcoming holidays as it prepares to host the 34th annual church fair Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Holly Holidays will feature novel shops, offering beautiful Christmas decorations and homemade gift items, a home made candy booth, country store, children's shop, teen room, book store, attic treasures and more. Lunch and dinner will be offered both days, with lunches to be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and dinner — turkey with dressing or ham — from 5 to 7 p.m. Helping to promote the fair are Lucille Grassmyer (from left), Kathy Chorbajian, Ann Santure, Louise Steinhauer and Beverly Wensko. — ANP photo.

It seems we've inherited the Englishman's muffins

By KAY DeBORD

Do you like muffins? Are you impressed by the TV commercials in which the little old "granny" brags about the glories of Thomas' English muffins in contrast to the other kind?

To me, muffins are muffins. As long as they can be toasted without setting themselves on fire in the toaster.

I like the plain, but better yet, I like them warm and dripping with the peach and rhubarb preserves or the wild grape jelly so generously provided for my delectation by News Editor Sue McDonald, a person of many talents.

And most of all I REALLY like them when I am reading an English murder mystery. For years they (the English authors) have tortured my taste buds by serving tea and crumpets or muffins dripping with butter and strawberry jam or other goodies that I didn't have at hand.

Now, as the characters have tea, I turn to my English muffins and Sue's goodies. And no longer does envy curdle my stomach.

The following came to my attention through the mails, and after reading it, I can sympathize with the plight of the English muffin lover.

It reads as follows: "While the passion for English muffins grows in America, the English people can't get them in their native land.

When the secret recipe was brought to America 100 years ago by a young Englishman, Samuel Bath Thomas, their popularity was flourishing in England.

No one is really sure why they gradually disappeared from the English scene, but some letters from England offer clues to what happened.

As part of this year's anniversary celebration, S.B. Thomas, Inc. delivered English muffins to some Englishman via The International Wine & Food Society. When Howard Meighan, Chairman of the Board of the New York Society, attended a council meeting in London he took English muffins to the members. The thank-you letters bemoaned the loss.

The oldest member of the council wrote: "I can still in recollection see, and hear—for he announced his passage by ringing a bell—the muffin man who went past my parents' home every afternoon in winter." He went on to say, "I can't say when the door-to-door muffin trade died out in England. I can't remember a muffin man after the end of the 1914-18 war. They lingered on for a time in bakers' shops, and then disappeared altogether. I mourn the loss of the English muffin more than I do that of the British Empire."

Crumpets, which are available only from November to April, seem to have replaced English muffins.

They are served with afternoon tea, along with watercress sandwiches.

Another member described the muffins as "a rare treat." He wrote, "crumpets are another matter, although they are often confused with muffins and it is true that there is a superficial resemblance. But the essential difference is that crumpets are made from batter containing eggs, while muffins are made from dough which does not contain eggs."

When Sam brought English muffins to America in 1880, they quickly caught on as breakfast fare, but for many years were available only in the north east United States.

Now Americans have muffin mania."

And that includes me!

Headaches

Abnormal reactions of cranial blood vessel walls, usually secondary to chemical substance imbalance, have also been associated with migraine headaches. But the actual cause of migraine headaches still remains a mystery.

It must be emphasized that headache in migraine sufferers can also be of tension type, similar to headaches which individuals with severe anxiety and/or depression suffer from.

Headaches that persist for weeks or months continuously are not recognized as migraine headaches and should be investigated to determine cause and treatment.

The most common type of chronic recurring headache is tension headache (muscle contraction headache). It is basically not accompanied by abnormal neurological findings. Psychological factors are almost always a cause of this type of headache. The pain is usually steady, frequently non-throbbing, and located either on one or both sides of the head, in the front or back or both. Intensity usually reaches maximum at the end of the day, usually after strenuous work. Careful inquiry usually uncovers sleep problems, psychosomatic disturbances, and chronic anxiety.

Headache is a very common problem; yet, it can be very difficult to manage. For migraine headaches, the physician very often prescribes drugs that stabilize blood vessel tone. Other drugs, such as sedatives, anti-depressants, tranquilizers, and steroids, have also been used to control migraine. It must be stressed that drugs are only part of the treatment of migraine. Avoidance of precipitating factors is especially important.

It's not too early to think...

PAUL GREEN

Class B

Freshman named to elite All-Area grid team

Usually freshmen don't muscle their way on to All-Area teams until they pick up loads of experience and knowledge.

But there are, of course, exceptions. And Robichaud's Paul Green is a 220-pound, 5-9 exception.

GREEN, who helped Robichaud Coach Robert Yauck and the rest of the Bulldogs to an impressive 5-3 won-lost season is a defensive specialist that started in all eight games and finished with 34 solo tackles, 21 assists and pounced on one fumble. Green is also an all-league selection.

"Paul has great attitude, determination and aggressiveness for a freshman," noted Coach Yauck, "and I feel he will be one of the greatest defensive players in this school's history before he wraps up his prep career."

Joining Green on the Associated Newspapers' High School Football Class B team are teammates Sydney Brisbane, Kenric Bond, Randolph Long, Rick Morais, David Reid, along with Inkster's Kim Hammons, Derrick Wyatt, Chris Starks, Steve Robinson, and Al Baskin. Drafted from across Michigan Avenue from Cherry Hill are John Martin, Gerald Lee, Mike Johnson, and Don DeFoe.

BRISBANE, a 6-0, 160-pound senior quarterback is considered a dangerous open-field runner and was exceptional on option plays. Sydney rushed for 310 yards on 68 carries and completed 112 passes for 710 yards and six touchdowns. He scored 46 points and while not on offense he played defense in the secondary where he accounted for 30 solos, 22 assists and returned five pass interceptions for 145 yards. Brisbane also scooped up a fumble and sprinted back 40 yards for a touchdown that sealed a key victory for the Bulldogs over Highland Park. Sydney also was named to the all-Suburban Athletic Conference team.

BOND doubled as a linebacker while he wasn't busy as a blocking fullback. A first year varsity linebacker who captured all-SAC accolades as well, Bond has exceptional lateral range. He led the defense with a phenomenal 82 solos, 39 assists and one pass interception. On offense, Kenric switched from tailback to fullback and rushed for 357 yards on 67 carries. A good blocker from his fullback position, he caught three passes for 41 yards and scored 42 points. A junior who has been selected as the Bulldogs' 1981 captain, Bond is considered his team's best over-all athlete.

LONG, a 210-pound, 5-9 senior guard who was used as a defensive tackle by Coach Yauck has the size and quickness for collegiate football. He opened the big holes for Bulldog runningbacks for the past two years and was the team leader.

Voted by the SAC coaches to all-conference honors, Long anchored the Bulldogs' defensive line that shut out four of its opponents this season. A defensive tackle, he had 24 solos and 25 assists and was credited with a safety.

MORIAS, a sturdy 6-1, 215-pound senior was moved from fullback to an offensive guard slot and, along with Long, became the best pair of guards in the last six years of Robichaud history. Good size, aggressive and rated the most consistent Bulldog blocker, Morais walked off with the team's "Hit Award" three times. He was a tri-captain and an All-SAC member. On defense, Rick doubled as a defensive end and wound up with 30 unassisted tackles and 19 assists. He forced four fumbles and was extremely tough on power plays off tackle.

REID was a two-way starter for the Bulldogs for the past two years and as a tight end caught 14 passes for 125 yards and a touchdown. A solid blocker, with good speed, David has good hands. Reid found a home on defense playing tackle and because of his great quickness was the team's leading tackler on the line. He had 36 solos and 39 assists.

plus two fumble recoveries. He also was credited with four forced fumbles. In his second year as a starter, Reid is an honor student, '80 tri-captain and a member of the conference's All-Sac team.

Researching the morgue

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

When he said that he didn't know what a newspaper morgue was, there was a sudden urge to hang up the telephone and get on with the task of meeting our deadline.

But, then an intense curiosity prevented me from hanging up.

"What's it that you want?" I asked again.

"Please, Mr. Mooradian, I need to know how John Glenn finished in football back in 1965," the caller pleaded. He then went on to say that he was compiling all of the won-lost records, the scores for that Westland-based high school to present to the team and coaching staff at the team's banquet.

Although most newspaper people are cooperative in such requests and situations I feel we would all agree — why do these people pop up right at or on deadline?

We agreed to help and a few moments later in drops Keith DeMolay, a 27-year-old paraprofessional from P.D. Graham School and a 1971 graduate of John Glenn. He was immediately ushered to the "morgue" — the backlog of bound volumes this (and most) newspapers keep for references.

A few minutes later DeMolay returned to the office and announced that his mission was completed, that he now has compiled the won-lost records of his beloved Rockets.

He rattled off some stats and names of former coaches like Bob Lusk, Lloyd Carr, Jerry Lutri — and then asked: "Do you know that there have only been four head coaches in the high school's history and only one athletic director, Don Domke?"

As DeMolay unloaded some of his research he revealed another interesting theory that most high school football fans in the Wayne-Westland Community School District would like to see become a fact.

"What would happen," asked the young grid historian, "if they should ever combine the two high schools and say make Wayne the junior high and John Glenn the senior high. I bet we'd have one heck of an athletic program in this school district."

Strange that that subject should come up. Those of us who have trafficked in rumors over the past two decades know that the thought of combining the two schools into one senior high is a possibility in the nearest future. With enrollment rapidly declining in most school districts, there will inevitably be a tightening of belts and the consolidation of school districts.

What was considered impassable barriers in the past now, because of finances, could be realized in the near future. School districts such as Crestwood and North Dearborn Heights (Riverside) have actively discussed merger.

And the three school districts that Inkster houses: Westwood, Cherry Hill and Inkster may some day be forced into consolidation.

Though the thought of school consolidation doesn't dominate school board meetings at present, look for school board members to seek out such solutions to their economic problems in the future.

And, before we forget DeMolay . . . who was beaming with triumph when he finished his mission to the morgue, we asked him what was the over-all Glenn record and he sputtered out: "Can't tell you until I make my report. Don't want you to scoop me!"

That, sir, is gratitude.

Argonis nets

his 3rd goal

Notching his third goal of the season in leading Western Michigan University's soccer team to a 1-0 win over Lewis University was freshman forward Dave Argonis of Canton.

Argonis scored early in the second half of the game when a shot by teammate Keith Ketterling beat Lewis netminder Tim Donahue, but the ball stopped short of the goal line because of a mud slick in the goal area. Argonis raced in uncontested for the tally.

Coach Scott Ferris' team is now 5-9-1.

Wayne tankers edge Monroe

Wayne Memorial's undefeated girls swim team took two-time defending Great Lakes 8 Conference, champs, Monroe, right down to the last event and won a cliffhanging 87-85 victory over the Trojans.

"We wanted this one," said Wayne Coach Jim McPartlin. "Now all we have to do is finish second — or better — in the league and we'll have at least a share of the championship."

"And, believe me, our kids aren't contemplating on finishing second to anyone in this league this year," McPartlin added.

Wayne will host the 1980 conference championships which is scheduled for later this month. Monroe has dominated the conference waters for the past two years and the Trojans, although they lost to Wayne, had the larger share of first places in their confrontation.

Monroe had the edge 7-4 and, if it weren't for second place finishes by the Wayne 400 freestyle relay team and Mary Batterson's efforts, they would have also taken the decision. However, thanks to Zebras' Lacy Lopez, Karen VanKeuren, Sandy Burns and Mary Batterson who turned in the second place time in the freestyle relay, Wayne now has a shot at the title.

Carley cards 4 goals as Little Bill's coasts

With Terry Carley firing in four goals, league-leading Little Bill's Trophies ripped The Jock Shop 7-4 to remain atop of the Westland-Wayne Over 30 Hockey League's Berrington Division.

The victory was Little Bill's fourth in five starts and the league pacesetters maintain a two-point edge over challengers Taste Freeze and Benny's Pizzeria.

Four minutes had elapsed in the first period when Carley struck for goal number one. A mere 2½ minutes was gone in period two when he netted his second point for the evening and to cap it off, scored the only two goals in the third period.

Corky Hays added to Little Bill's win by scoring one goal and assisting three others.

Don Middaugh and Ken Beal rounded out the scoring for the winners.

In a losing effort, Jerry Peterson, Jack Willard and Bill McCusker had one tally each in the first period for The Jock Shop. Ron Wojewski also netted one goal for the losers.

Paul Cramer and Dave Frankling had two goals apiece as Taste Freeze outskated Extra Point Bar, 6-3. Taste Freeze took the lead in the first period on Cramer's first goal. Frankling scored his first goal in the second period while Murray Peterson tallied one.

Joe Soukup, Frankling and Cramer accounted for the third period goals to secure the win.

Extra Point's scoring came in the late periods as Nelson Vangerburgh had a second period goal and assisted John Colligan and Roger Wodgenske with their single tallies in the third period.

Dave Zajac netted his first of two goals of the game early in the first period as Benny's Pizzeria held off Brock Builders, 3-2. Ray Schemanske found the crease late in the first period to take a 2-0 lead. Zajac got what proved to be the game winning goal early in the third period.

Layne Cardinal kept the game close as he scored once in the second period and with 3:49 remaining in the game scored his second and last goal for Brock Builders.

Johnson Carbonic secured its fourth consecutive win in five outings by outskating Etronic, 7-2. Johnson's broke lose for three goals in the second period after 35 minutes of scoreless hockey. Mark LaFond, George Motts and Dennis (Duck) Broge had second period tallies, all within 3½ minutes. Motts started off the third period for Johnson's with his second goal of the game, contributing to his four points of the evening. John Kunz, Claude Johnson and Ron Johnson added single tallies.

Etronic failed to get on the scoreboard until Rick Mullen found the net early in the third period. The final goal of the game was scored by Keith Middaugh with 1:39 remaining.

Larry Whicker recorded his first shutout of the season as Futurama managed to skate by Jake's Lounge, 2-0. Barry Anderson was the man of the hour for Futurama by scoring midpoint of the second period and with 1:52 remaining in the third period.

Sunday, (November 16) Futurama will get a shot at Benny's Pizzeria when the skaters take the ice at 6:30 p.m., The Jock Shop clashes with Brock Builders at 8 p.m., and Johnson Carbonic will take on Taste Freeze at 9:30 p.m.

All three games will be played at the Westland Rink.

Over in Wayne, Etronic has a 9 p.m. meeting with Extra Point Bar & A-C and at 10:30 p.m. Jake's Lounge plays Little Bills Trophies.

Wayne makes it 6 wins in 7 starts on the ice

The Wayne Midget B's won its fourth victory of the season by scoring four power-play goals against Dearborn, extending their winning streak to four. Goalie Frank Cierpial posted his second shutout in four games. He now boasts a 1.0 average.

Power play goals were scored by Terry Kucharski (Jim Newland), Eric Mac (Doug Mac & Brian Brozowski) Tony Thornsberry (Don Erhart and Kucharski) and Gary Vallance (E. Mac & Bob Gorney).

Another goal was scored by Brozowski (E. Mac) to make the final score 5-0. Brozowski's goal was his 4th in 4 games.

The midgets suffered their first defeat of the season in game 5 against Farmington, 3-2. However, a controversial goal which was disallowed at 7:26 of the 3rd period helped in their demise.

Hole-In-One winner

Patrick E. Provot of 48941 Denton Road, Belleville, is eligible to win a free trip to Scotland and $1,000 as a result of scoring a hole-in-one at the Verona Hills Golf Club.

Provot's ace qualified for the 20th annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Liqueur Company of Edinburgh, Scotland.

The winner will be announced early next year.

Gary Vallance and E. Mac had a 2-on-1 break and Vallance put the puck into the net but the referee called a penalty on Mac for checking from behind, in front of the net.

The goals counted were scored by Rodney Bleim, his first of the season, assisted by Brozowski and Erhart and Vallance scored the second, assisted by Kucharski.

Wayne went on to win its sixth game of the season against Redford, thanks to the outstanding goaltending of Cierpial, who posted his third shutout of the season. He had alot of help from defensemen Kucharski, Keith Gilbert, D. Mac, and Jeff Sandy as Wayne killed off five Redford power play opportunities.

The game winner came in the second period from the hard work of Erhart as he dug the puck out along the boards to set up Bleim's 25 foot slap shot. Erhart was filling in on the wrong wing for two injured players—Thornsberry and Gorney.

Brian Mac put the icing on the cake, with his first goal of the season, scoring in the second

NO ANNUAL FEE!

Switch and save up to $20 per card!

Almost every area bank has announced a new annual fee to be charged to its credit card customers. This means that if you have a MasterCard or Visa account at one of these banks, you will be charged an annual fee ranging between $10 and $20. And if you have a MasterCard at one bank and Visa at another, you will probably have to pay an annual fee at each bank.

Good News

At Wyandotte Savings Bank, there is still no annual fee for MasterCard and Visa cardholders. Which means you can save up to $20 per card per year! So it makes sense to switch your MasterCard and Visa accounts to WSB. But there's more.

More Good News

When you have both a MasterCard and Visa account at WSB, your monthly paperwork is cut in half. Instead of receiving two monthly statements and writing two checks, we'll send you just one statement and if there is a balance due, you'll only have to write one check. This saves you time and money.

Come to WSB and Save

So if you have one or both of your credit card accounts at another bank—or if you want to open a MasterCard and Visa account for the first time—apply at any office of Wyandotte Savings Bank. We'll save you money with no annual fees and we'll send you your cards in time for Christmas shopping.

No annual fee on credit cards is just one more reason why you should do all your banking at Wyandotte Savings Bank. We've been helping people for over a century.

the past two years. A shifty 5-9, 162-pound senior signal-caller, Kim kept his team in most of the games last season and led the Viking offense this year. He carried the ball 67 times for 301 yards and two touchdowns this year. He also attempted 124 passes and completed 68 for another 641 yards and six touchdowns. Kim had two two-point conversions.

"Needless to say without Hammons we would have been in deeper trouble than we were this year," said Inkster Coach Arnice James. "He's the type of athlete all coaches like to have on a team."

Hammons also used his athletic skills on defense where he averaged four solos and five assists per game. Kim also picked off five passes and recovered a fumble.

WYATT, a guard who stands 6-2, and checks in at 205, is an excellent blocker both as a pulling guard and on one-and-one situations. "We got most of our yardage gained rushing to Derrick's side," mentioned Coach

James. On defense, Wyatt held down a tackle slot, played end and nose guard when needed. Derrick accounted for 33 unassisted tackles and 38 assists. He had four sacks of the quarterback, two fumble recoveries, a pass interception and four blocked passes.

STARK will be back to help the Vikings a year from now. A 5-11, 155-pound junior who was one of the premier Class B split ends, Chris hauled in 29 passes — all from Hammons — for 444 yards and five touchdowns. He also grabbed two two-point conversions.

ROBINSON held down the center chores and was switched to tackle when the Vikings were on defense. Here's what Coach James has to say about the 5-9, 200-pound athlete: "Steve is a good center who blocks with authority. Whatever rushing success we had on offense depended a lot on how he and Derrick combined their efforts. On defense, Steve was primarily used as a tackle where he nailed enemy ballcarriers for 30 solo tackles, 33 assists and also recovered a fumble. Steve counted two sacks of the QB for huge losses.

BASKIN was very effective in clutch situations where the enemy had to be stopped. Al had a knack for getting to the ballcarrier on those crucial situations. He played middle linebacker as well as defensive end. For nine games he racked up a fantastic 68 solo tackles and 72 assists. He had one pass interception and two fumble recoveries plus a blocked punt and three sacks of the quarterback.

On offense Al was used as a running back and as such he rushed for 126 yards and a touchdown for his 32 attempts. He also caught nine passes for an additional 141 yards.

MARTIN, a senior tri-captain at Cherry Hill High School, was an outstanding 6-foot-1, 180-pound guard-linebacker. "He was a weakside guard responsible for most of our trappings," said Coach Jerry Pawloski. "He did an excellent job of opening holes for our running backs. He is a trackman, who runs a 53-second quarter mile and made all-league as a junior. Martin, a two-way player who starred on defense, led the defensive unit in solo tackles with more than 60, plus contributed two quarterback sacks, one pass interception and two fumble recoveries. "John ranks in the upper third of his graduating class and would like to play college football. He's a very fine young man and an outstanding leader," Pawloski said.

LEE is another senior tri-captain of the Spartans. The 6-4, 215-pounder played fullback, tight end and defensive end. Moved to fullback from tight end after the second game, he averaged 5.5 yards per carry as he rambled 244 yards on 44 rushes. "He has good speed for a big man," Pawloski said, "running 40 yards in 4.9 seconds and has excellent quickness and explosiveness." Lee was the second leading tackler on the Spartans with more than 50 solo tackles and forced many teams to run away from his defensive side of the line. "He's physically very strong and can leg-press more than 1,000 pounds," Pawloski said. "He's another excellent two-way player who is very coachable and dedicated. He saved the Southgate Schafer game by deflecting away a pass in the final seconds of the game." Lee also plays varsity basketball.

JOHNSON, a 5-10, 180-pound tailback-linebacker, is the third senior tri-captain and is a two-year, two-way starter. He has been all-league and all-area in his two years as a starter. "Mike's a punishing kind of runner with 4.6 speed for 40 yards," Pawloski said. Johnson carried the ball 111 times for 645 yards (a 5.8 average) and five touchdowns. "He had four games where he gained more than 100 yards and also caught 14 passes this season for 116 yards." Johnson-led the defense with 91 tackles, plus two quarterback sacks, three pass interceptions and five fumble recoveries. "He's an outstanding two-way player, the toughest football player — both mentally and physically — I have seen at Cherry Hill in 16 years." Coach Pawloski said. "Mike is one of the finest young gentlemen on and off the field that I have ever coached." Johnson also plays varsity basketball and baseball.

DEFOE was only in his first year of varsity football but Pawloski called him the team's "most consistent football player." The 6-foot, 200-pound noseman was very difficult to double-team and hardly anyone was able to run up the middle against Cherry Hill all season. "He's very quick, strong and agile with the desire to not be blocked." Another two-way starter with a nose for the ball, Don recovered seven fumbles and his jarring tackles created three other fumbles. Very quiet and soft-spoken off the field, DeFoe turned into a tough, hard-nosed aggressive player on the field. "He was a very dedicated and committed individual this season and never missed a single practice," Pawloski said.

How sweet it is

After six frustrating football seasons, Wayne Memorial head football coach Floyd Carter managed to walk off the gridiron last week taking with him the Fall Football Classic championship trophy. The traveling trophy is awarded to the winner of the Glenn Wayne game and Wayne, after winning it the first three years, hit a winning drought the next six. Although the grid season ended two weeks ago, it isn't over officially in the area until next week when The Associated Newspapers will present its Class A All-Area team.—Photo by ANP Chief Photographer Lothar Komietzko.

Beyer Hospital to offer free diabetes testing

Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti is participating in a statewide diabetes testing effort Nov. 18, 19 and 20 by offering area residents free diabetes testing at the hospital.

More than 150 hospitals in Michigan are expected to take part in the Detection Week activities, according to the American Diabetes Association.

Persons who would like to be tested should come to the hospital anytime from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on those three days. The lobby receptionist will direct participants to the laboratory, where blood will be drawn for the test.

If you plan to take advantage of the free testing, you should eat a normal to large, carbohydrate-rich meal two hours prior to the test, according to Beyer Laboratory Manager Noel Johnson. This causes the optimum body and blood condition for testing.

Remember, too, that the testing is not designed for persons who already know they have diabetes. Rather, the program is designed for those who do not know whether or not they have the condition.

Results of the test will be forwarded to the Michigan chapter of the American Diabetes Association for follow-up.

The association will notify a person if there is a "positive" result, and in that case will urge him to see his own physician for further evaluation. Beyer Memorial Hospital is located at 135 S. Prospect in Ypsilanti.

Arson fires set at every hour

More often than every hour of every day, someone deliberately and maliciously set a fire in Michigan in 1979.

Arson offenses reported by police agencies reached an all time high, a 55 percent increase over the previous year, according to a report received by John N. Wilhide, Romulus fire chief, from Capt. William R. Rucinski, commander of the Fire Marshall Division of the Michigan State Police.

In Michigan cities, arsons rose a whopping 71 percent while in rural areas, the number of cases was up 22 percent. Most spectacular was the 165 percent jump in arsons reported by the City of Detroit.

These sobering statistics were gathered by the Uniform Crime Reporting Unit of the State Police. Rucinski added that arson was elevated to a "Part I" class crime last year by act of U.S. Congress.

A statewide reporting system gathering information from Michigan fire departments also showed substantial increases in arsons last year when compared with 1978. The fire departments reported a 15 percent increase in incendiary fires and a 14 percent increase in "suspicious" fires. "Suspicious" fires are those fires that may indicate arson, but lack the positive evidence usually required in a court case.

Property loss in these fires was over $44 million, which does not include expenses related to caring for the casualties, nor business interruption, nor outside living expenses, nor lost tax base, nor lost income, nor loss of pets, nor the cost of fighting the fires, nor does it in any way measure the anguish and suffering of those directly and indirectly affected by the fires, explained Rucinski.

"Arson must be dealt with and everyone must get involved. It is not a problem for Criminal Justice agencies only," he emphasized.

Rucinski said some courts have said that insurance companies owe it to their policyholders to defend against fraudulent claims. This practice and prudent underwriting policy would certainly discourage arson fraud fires, he added. The general public can help by supporting and encouraging firefighters, police and prosecutors in their communities to give arson a high priority status, said Rucinski.

"People can also support legislation that will impact on controlling the arson problem. Homes and businesses can be made a less appealing target for the burglar or the juvenile, who plays with matches, by removing unnecessary combustibles. They can keep their homes and businesses locked and report other unlocked buildings to the owner or the police," he advised.

He asked that if someone knows anything about a suspicious fire — past, present or future — they should call "Arson Control" at (517) 322-0469 (collect calls will be accepted) or the Wayne County Sheriffs Office at 721-2222. If the tip they report leads to the arrest and-or conviction of anyone on arson charges, they will receive a reward. The identity of the caller will be kept confidential, if he or she so desires, he explained.

To take flight training

Veterans will pay larger share of cost

Veterans taking flight training or correspondence courses under the GI Bill must pay a larger share of the costs under legislation effective in October.

But low cost VA loans of up to $2,500 are now available to veterans in flight training. Both provisions were part of "The Education and Rehabilitation Amendments of 1980."

The Congressional action, approved by the president on October 17, also increased GI Bill education allowances.

Students who enroll in correspondence programs after Sept. 1, 1980, may receive 70 percent of the total charges for correspondence training from the Veterans Administration. Those in flight training are reimbursed 60 percent of the costs.

Those enrolled in either program on Sept. 1, 1980, or earlier will continue to get 90 percent of the total throughout the course provided the training is continuous and part of the same program of education.

Flight training continues to be restricted to eligible veterans taking an approved course of flight training generally accepted as necessary to attain a recognized vocational objective in the aviation field. Flight students also must meet physical qualifications, and they must have earned a private pilot's license.

YMCA is seeking volunteers

The YWCA of Western Wayne County needs volunteers to help in two major programs. The Westland Women's Employment Center, a YWCA sponsored free job placement program for women, needs volunteers who wish to be trained as peer counselors. The Center is also in need of typists and individuals who are interested in telephoning prospective employers and clients.

The YWCA also has a program to aid in the rehabilitation of female inmates at the Wayne County Detention Annex. Many volunteers are needed. Women with knitting and crocheting can find satisfaction with volunteer work in this program.

To help in these programs call Leslie Frederick at the YWCA at 561-4110.

Pipelines... make good neighbors

America has over 220,000 miles of petroleum pipelines carrying crude oil and products to refineries and storage terminals across the United States. Each day, more than 1.5 billion ton/miles of crude oil and products move through this network. These pipelines have a safety record second to none in the transportation industry... and we want you to help us keep it that way.

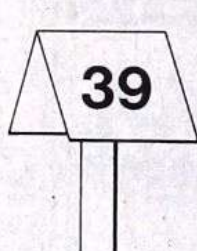

GROUND MARKER

GROUND MARKER

CASING VENT

AERIAL MARKER

When you see signs like those shown above, they tell you that there's a pipeline nearby. If it's underground, you can't see it, of course. But it's there, working quietly to provide energy for you and other consumers throughout this nation.

Some of these signs list the commodity transported in the pipeline, the name of the operator, and a telephone number where the operator's representative can be reached at all times.

- Although pipelines have an exceptionally good safety record, once in a while a leak can occur. Indications of a leak might include:
- A strange or unusual odor in the vicinity of a pipeline.
  - A hissing or roaring sound (caused by petroleum or product escaping from a pipeline).
  - A dense white cloud or fog.
  - A spot of dead or discolored vegetation.
  - An accumulation of petroleum

- liquids on or a mist above the ground in the area of a pipeline.
- Flames originating from an opening in the ground. If you become aware of a pipeline leak...
- LEAVE THE LEAK AREA IMMEDIATELY.
- Avoid driving into vapor clouds.
- Avoid direct contact with the escaping liquids.

- Avoid creating sparks or sources of heat which could cause the liquids or vapor to ignite and burn. If you find yourself in a suspected vapor area, do not light a match, start an engine or even switch on an electric light.
- Notify the pipeline operator as soon as you reach a safe area. Call collect. Give your name, a description of the leak and its location. If you do not know who the pipeline operator is, call your local fire, police or sheriff's department, or the state police. Advise them of the nature and location of the emergency. If you see someone digging near a pipeline or doing other construction work... or if you plan to do such work near a pipeline yourself... please call the telephone number shown on the sign and let the pipeline company know so damage can be avoided. It's in your interest... and the nation's.

education aimed toward eventual self-care. The work is challenging and the learning is stimulating.

Lally brothers prepare for pro boxing careers

Brett Lally is all business as he prepares for his next bout.

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Playtime Coordinator

The thump, thump, thump of leather hitting flesh was unmistakable as Brad and Brett Lally danced around the ring. Brotherly love? Not today. There's no room for love within a 20-by-20 foot boxing ring even if the combatants are brothers.

And today these two potential pro fighters hammered each other for five rounds during their daily training routine. Neither seemed to be holding back any punches.

"They're two of our most advanced fighters," remarked coach Paul Soucy, who runs the Livonia Boxing Club out of a former Livonia school (now the Jefferson Community Center). "Both are scrappers with a lot of natural ability — they both could turn pro someday."

Brad, 21, and Brett, 17, are perfect sparring partners despite their physical differences — Brad is a 6-1, 156-pound middleweight while Brett ranks as a 5-7, 125-pound featherweight. Brett's speed and punching power serve as a nice contrast to Brad's superior reach and ring maturity.

"You can't judge a kid's boxing potential by his personality," said assistant coach Dick Quilton as he watched the Lallys slug it out along the ropes. "Contact in the ring — that's where the potential shows. Some like the contact, some don't."

A graduate of Westland John Glenn High, Brad has compiled an 18-7 record in two years at the Livonia club, including a Flint Golden Gloves championship and runner-up berth at the Detroit Golden Gloves. Six of his losses have come on split decisions.

"I want to become a professional in June after the Golden Gloves (national tournament)," explained Brad, relaxing after the workout in a former classroom turned gym. "I'm not getting punched around for nothing."

Of course, Brad doesn't make a habit of getting punched around. His progress since losing his first decision some two years ago has been substantial, according to coaches Soucy and Quilton.

"I lost that first fight to a guy who already had 27 bouts under his belt," Brad recalled. "He was probably too experienced for me at the time but I just wanted to fight anyone."

"Mostly I'm a boxer," he said in describing his style, "but I will slug it out if put against the wall. There's nothing more competitive than boxing. I've played hockey and baseball and wrestled on school teams but nothing compares to boxing."

His idol? Thomas "Hitman" Hearns.

"We're about the same size," noted Brad, who along with his brother, Brian, owns the Lally Brothers Landscaping business in Canton. "I've been to most of his fights in the area. I love the sport ... I'll get out of it though when my face starts to show that I'm a boxer."

Brett Lally is also a boxer with a promising future. In his second year at the Livonia club, Brett epitomizes the "dynamite in a small package" description. Fear is not a word in his vocabulary despite his 5-foot-7 build.

"I've been challenged a few times in school," admitted the Westland John Glenn senior. "But most of my friends and teachers think it's pretty cool that I'm a fighter — they come out to my fights."

"I try to avoid trouble but I've been in a few scraps," added the muscular 125 pounder. "Sparring with my brother helps me because he has a longer reach and is an experienced fighter. Most everyone I fight has a longer reach than me so the practice helps."

Brett speaks quickly and with the enthusiasm of youth. His fists also talk — the younger Lally ranks as the defending Detroit Golden Gloves champ (novice division) and sports a 15-2 record.

"Within the next two years I'd like to turn pro," Brett declared, sweat trickling down his face. "Boxing is different than team sports — it's one-on-one, you're the best or he's the best. I'm following in my brother's footsteps."

And what do Tom and Theresa Lally of Westland think of their sons' pugilistic careers?

"Mom doesn't like to watch us fight," Brett laughed. "She saw my first fight when I just went wild and got a first round knockout. My dad really loves watching us fight. He takes pictures all the time."

The Lally brothers are scheduled to fight on a local card December 13 at the Livonia Family YMCA on Stark Road. During the next few months they will continue to maintain a training route of running (three to five miles a day), sparring, light and heavy bag work and various exercises.

A gym will continue to serve as a second home for Brad and Brett Lally while they eye Golden Gloves titles. Professional boxing careers may prove more than just a dream.

'It's My Turn' lacks any sparkle of life

By J.T. YURKO
Special to Playtime

IT'S MY TURN, Columbia Pictures. Directed by Claudia Weill, written by Eleanor Bergstein. Starring Jill Clayburgh, Michael Douglas, Charles Grodin. Rated 'R'.

Let's begin with the title "It's My Turn." Just exactly whose turn is it?

The film stars Jill Clayburgh, Michael Douglas and Charles Grodin, but since Clayburgh is on camera more than anyone else, it must be her turn. But her turn to do what? And to whom? And why? And did she ever do it?

Michael Douglas and Jill Clayburgh are the stars.

Jill Clayburgh is rapidly becoming the cinematic embodiment of the average woman of the Eighties. Having left her husband to become "The Unmarried Woman," she was forced into the position of "Starting Over" and now steps into this film as the confidently independent woman. Currently she shares with Charles Grodin (equally, of course, and with no strings attached) a loft apartment which could easily be a converted warehouse. When this couple talks of breathing space they mean it literally. On a trip to New York she meets Michael Douglas, a baseball star whose career is shortened by an injury. As a successful college professor she may be calculating and analytical, but he is all emotional and physical. This represents a bit of a change for Clayburgh, as he is someone willing to give and share a little more of himself in a relationship. Eventually Clayburgh realizes that perhaps this is what she is missing in her life; she has independence and space but her independence is a bit lonely and her space is a bit chilly.

Normally I would hesitate to give the reader so much plot description as well as the film's ending and intentions, but in this case that's the best thing about the film — its intentions. The execution of those intentions is just that — an execution. Screenwriter Eleanor Bergstein and director Claudia Weill have murdered an otherwise quite presentable social observation.

The film's most grievous error is the failure to breathe any sparkle of life into these amazingly uninteresting characters. In a love story or in fact in almost any film, identifiable, sympathetic characters or strong characterizations of any sort are a must. A cloth and plastic puppet named Yoda, who never took a breath nor unaidedly blinked an eye, had more personality than anybody in this film.

Even the totally gratuitous inclusion of actual footage from this year's Old Timer's Day game at Yankee Stadium cannot liven up the dull proceedings. Moreover, I have rarely seen a film that contained so much post dubbing of dialogue, as if the producers hoped the insertion of more words would clear things up or pick up the tempo. No such luck.

It's a little bit sad when the best one can say about a film is that the title song may become a pop hit.

What's That Sound?

By STEVE O'LEARY

ROCKPILE "Seconds Of Pleasure" (Columbia)

Rockpile? Who are Rockpile? Never heard of them...What?

Oh yeah, sure I've heard of Dave Edmunds, isn't he the guy who had the hit "I Hear You Knocking" a few years ago...I thought so. Nick Lowe? I've heard of him too, I liked his single from last year, what was it called...I remember! "Cruel To Be Kind." Oh, so they're Rockpile!

Well, not entirely, but if you add guitarist Billy Bremner and ex-Man drummer Terry Williams to the previously mentioned duo, then you get one of the most powerfully melodic rock bands in the world today.

Due to contractual reasons, the band has never before put out an album under the name Rockpile, but they have already recorded a few Dave Edmunds' solo LP's as well as Nick Lowe's "Labour Of Lust" album, and although those are fine records, "Seconds Of Pleasure" is by far their most consistent album to date.

Kicking off with the single "Teacher Teacher," continuing right through "If Sugar Was As Sweet As You," and ending with "You Ain't Nothin' But Fine," you're foot will never stop tapping to the irresistible beat of Rockpile. This is truly pure pop for now people.

Lowe's country influences are evident throughout the album, and they are at their best on "When I Write The Book," as good a country-pop song to ever grace these ears. One thing is for sure: when he writes the book, I want the sound-track.

As a special treat, a free E.P. is included with the album, a four-song collectable containing Dave Edmunds and Nick Lowe singing songs by the Everly Brothers. Recorded with just their acoustic guitars, the dynamic duo perform "Take A Message To Mary," "Crying In The Rain," "Poor Jenny" (which is really fantastic!), and of course, "When Will I Be Loved." More than just a tribute to Don and Phil Everly, this is a tribute to rock and roll.

The only thing wrong with "Seconds Of Pleasure" is it's title—"Hours Of Pleasure" would be more like it. Or how about "Hours And Hours And Hours..."

Rockpile's 'Seconds of Pleasure' is more like 'Hours of Pleasure'

Plymouth Theatre Guild appeals to all 'Peanuts' fans

By GAIL JORGENSEN
Special to Playtime

How can you turn a cartoon strip into a stage play?

The original creators of the musical "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" didn't know how at first either.

A 29-year-old man named Clark Gesner had written some songs and assembled some actors and producers. But for the script, they simply improvised from 10 years of Charles Schulz' "Peanuts" comics.

Perhaps that's why the play is so effective—it works like a collage of clippings from this most successful cartoon series.

"Charlie Brown" is currently being presented in this area by the Plymouth Theatre Guild, and it makes a delightful evening for "Peanuts" fans of all ages.

Continuing with the cartoon feeling, the set is simply some geometric shapes which "sketch" the scenery. And the familiar characters move in and out of focus, as one "strip" finishes and we see another start.

The time is described as merely "an average day in the life of Charlie Brown."

At first the nine-year-old was a bit discomfited to see "old people" (to her) portraying cartoon kids; but she had to agree that all the characters "acted right." Most outstanding was Mark Brzezinski in the leading role of Charlie Brown.

Tall and rather angular faced, he was hardly cast for his countenance. Yet he had the most wonderfully expressive eyes, and a mouth that could twist as easily as Schulz' tense little penstrokes. He perfectly portrayed the anxieties of the insecure Charlie Brown.

Artist Schulz might have used Nancy Slevart, with her strong facial features and gleaming eyes, as his actual model for Lucy. Moreover, Ms. Slevart thrust herself thoroughly into the moods of that grade-school Grumpy. In announcing her intentions of becoming a queen, and in teaching Linus "Little Known Facts," she was especially effective.

And if happiness is a warm puppy, then ecstasy must be a sizzling Snoopy. Jim Crawford gave us just that.

Yes, Snoopy was played by a human being, costumed merely in a white turtleneck and tight black pants. Crawford acted out all the favorite fantasies of that precocious pet, with a tautness in his teeth and a song in his hind legs. His whimsical "Supper time" was easily the catchiest number in the show.

The cast of six were all fine vocally (particularly the women), and director Patricia Bray deserves special praise for the staging of "The Book Report" and "Glee Club Rehearsal." In these numbers, each character's separate lines and lifestyles clamor and clash and ultimately coordinate into a fusion of "Peanuts" philosophies. Both songs are a special delight.

And the nine-year-old wants me to mention that she recognized many of the jokes. She's been poring over "Peanuts" books from the library for a couple years.

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" will be presented again this weekend, Fri. and Sat. (Nov. 14 and 15) at 8 p.m. at Central Middle School in downtown Plymouth. The school is located at the corner of Main and Church Streets.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Call 421-2161 or 261-2875 for further information.

Comic characters featured in 'Charlie Brown' play.

Eye on Leisure

By LOTHAR KONIETZKO

A prize catch

Hunters from around the state will soon be zeroing in on deer like this spike-horn buck, which I photographed recently near Atlanta, Michigan. According to wildlife specialists, there'll only be a limited number of two- to four-point bucks available this year.

Fishing Lines

By BOB SAWITSKI

Michigan offers some quality salmon fishing

The Huron River, where it meanders through the sleepy village of Flat Rock, has provided some pretty fair salmon fishing so far this season. Believe it or not, it will only get better!

With the approach of deer season, many salmon anglers will be hanging up their fishing rods and taking down their rifles. And cold weather and snow is just around the corner, so it won't be long until there's only a handful of the most devoted anglers scattered along the banks of southeastern Michigan's major salmon spawning tributary.

The Huron is no longer open to snagging this year, and anglers will soon find the fish's preference changing from flashy, fast-moving spoons and spinners to fresh salmon eggs and spawn sacks drifted slowly downstream in the current. It will be necessary to switch to light line and a long, sensitive fishing rod.

Lots of limit catches will be taken throughout the winter months and the scent of smoked salmon will fill the air.

But the Huron hasn't always been this productive. Fishermen haven't long thought of the Huron in the same group as the AuSable, the Manistee and the Boardman. It still seems unusual that I don't have to travel long distances to catch salmon.

The rebirth of the Huron River began back in 1973. That's the year the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) poisoned Belleville Lake and the Huron River impoundment. Some of the poison washed over the Flat Rock dam and killed off many species of fish, both game and trash, in the lower Huron.

I remember standing on the banks of the river looking at the assortment of dead walleyes, carp, bass, crappies, bullheads, pike, suckers, sheephead—yes, even a few cohos—and I doubted that anything suitable would ever come of that mess.

But the DNR had planted the first salmon and steelhead in history in the Huron earlier that year, and the poisonous chemicals were flushed from the river before the major spawning run began. "Salmon fever" was in full swing in southeastern Michigan.

A wier had been constructed on the back channel at the Flat Rock City Park in hopes of allowing migrating salmonids to travel through the metropark system and providing a fishery for many more fishermen.

Salmon fishing continued to be good for a few years although few, if any, salmon found their way to the wier. But then something happened.

Salmon all but disappeared from the Huron River even though the restocking program continued. Many pointed the finger of blame at commercial fishermen on the Canadian side of Lake Erie, saying that they failed to return salmon caught in their nets. The fact that the entire population of Michigan's hatchery steelhead were wiped out by the fatal "whirling disease" made matters worse, and DNR officials threatened to discontinue the salmon plantings in the Huron if the returns didn't improve.

That was two years ago. Then the wier was redesigned so more water was forced into it, and DNR biologists got the idea to plant salmon in the river ABOVE the town of Flat Rock. The exact site was the Lower Huron Metropark.

That seemed to be the turning point. Prior to this year, Huron River salmon averaged well under 10 pounds, with only an occasional big fish showing up on an angler's stringer. This autumn, there are many fish in the 20-pound class in the river, and there have been reports of salmon being caught in the river between Flat Rock and Belleville Lake. To date, the biggest fish registered in the salmon fishing contest being sponsored by the Huron River Sport Shop is a 17-pound chinook. Expect that mark to be broken soon.

Let's face it—QUALITY salmon fishing has finally come to southeastern Michigan.

Herd composition has changed

Hunters may see lots of deer but few legal targets

Deer hunters can expect to see a lot of deer this fall. But whether you see anything you can legally shoot at will depend largely on where you're hunting and whether you have a hunter's choice permit.

According to Glenn Dudderar, Extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, the total number of deer in Michigan is about the same this fall as in recent years. The composition of the herd has changed, however, particularly among the younger bucks.

"The mild to moderate winter of 1979-80 gave us a good crop of fawns this past spring," Dudderar points out. "Pregnant does were able to forage freely in many areas last winter, enabling them to produce many strong, healthy fawns. As a result, there are a lot of antlerless deer around."

Permits for antlerless deer are being issued in almost all of the southern half of the lower peninsula, in certain portions of northern lower Michigan, and only in Menominee County in the Upper Peninsula. Hunters going into much of northern lower Michigan and the U.P. may see a lot of deer they can't shoot at.

A major reason for the shift in the herd's composition is the severe winter of 1978-79. Very cold temperatures, combined with deep snow that kept deer yarded up and made food hard to find well into March, resulted in a reduced crop of fawns that spring, so there are relatively few two- to four-point bucks ("spikes" or "forkhorns") available for harvest this year.

Though there are some older bucks around, hunters probably will not see many of them. Their age classes have gone through several hunting seasons, which in some areas take as much as 75 percent of the buck population.

The antlered deer that are around should have impressive racks of horns, Dudderar says, thanks to the mild winter and wet summer. Nutrition, along with age, determines antler growth, he explains. The summer's abundant, lush vegetation should mean that bucks will be producing some nice racks. Even though there are fewer yearling deer, some of those should have six- to eight-point racks.

The abundance of food also means that the deer herd will go into winter in good shape. With another mild winter that results in a large fawn crop, deer numbers could really jump.

"A problem with deer management is that you don't know what the winter will be like, so you can't manage deer numbers closely," Dudderar notes. "If the Michigan Department of Natural Resources biologists knew we'd have another easy winter, they could restrict the season on antlerless deer which would cause a population expansion."

"If they did that and we had a severe winter, however, there would be a population reduction. The problem is further compounded because in many areas where farming predominates, there are too many deer for the farmer, while on adjacent public lands there are too few deer for hunters."

This year, deer hunting in the southern lower peninsula should be as good or better than usual, he says, especially for those hunters whose permits to take antlerless deer. In the northern lower peninsula, success will vary. Especially on state land, where hunting pressure is often heavy, some hunters may come back empty-handed.

In most of the Upper Peninsula, where the number of deer harvested has been declining in recent years, legal targets may be hard to find. The exception is Menominee County, which is hosting a hunter's choice season again this year. There hunting is likely to be pretty good.

Dudderar urges hunters who want to try their luck in southern Michigan this year to begin asking landowners now for permission to hunt in their woods and fields. Ask even if the land is posted, he suggests.

"About 60 percent of owners of posted land will allow hunting if you ask politely ahead of time," he says. "A lot of landowners have suffered deer damage and welcome responsible hunters on their property."

Computers affordable for consumers

Technological advances have reduced the size, price and complexity of computers, making them affordable to the everyday consumer, small businessman and professional person.

The Atari 400 personal computer can be used for information, communication, education, finances, record keeping and entertainment.

The Atari 800 is a top-of-the-line personal computer system, with expandable memory, advanced peripheral components and comprehensive software library.

Both computer systems are designed for use by people with little or no previous computer knowledge. At the same time, they do not compromise capability for the sophisticated user.

A number of optional accessories are available to expand even further the computer's capability.

Stay in shape for hunting endurance
Your most important piece of hunting equipment is not your gun or bow, your hunter-orange hat, your license, your duck decoys or your dog. It's your body. And it's the one essential element in a good hunting season that you're most likely to neglect.

Michigan State University Extension wildlife specialist Glenn Dudderar points out that heart attacks, not firearms accidents, are sometimes the leading cause of hunting-related deaths. Though heart attacks can occur in persons who are in good shape and conditioned to strenuous activities, they more often strike ordinarily inactive people who go out in the field and overdo.

Sprains and strains and other less serious injuries are also more likely to happen to a person who's out of condition.

To get ready for hunting or any other strenuous outdoor activity, it's a good idea to get into a conditioning program that gradually builds endurance. If you aren't exercising regularly, a checkup by your physician is advisable. With your doctor's help, you can determine your present level of fitness and design a conditioning program suited to it. It may begin with vigorous walking or slow jogging and work up to more taxing activities.

If you hunt with a dog, take the animal with you when you train outdoors. Chances are it needs a little conditioning, too. And you'll be less likely to cheat and skip your workouts if the dog gets into the routine, too. Dogs can be very insistent, persistent reminders.

Dudderar points out that getting in shape makes hunting more enjoyable, as well as safer.

"You're more likely to have a good time tramping through the woods and fields if you're feeling good and breathing easily," he says. "Huffing and puffing and getting tired out early in the day can turn an outing into a chore."

If you know you're out of shape, take care when out in the wilds not to overexert yourself. Stop and rest occasionally instead of pushing yourself. If you realize you're breathing hard and tiring rapidly, take it easy.
